Pledges Cong Aid

Viet War Freezing U.S.-Russian Ties, Brezhnev Declares

CRASH-LANDING IN VIET. Pilots and members of the ground crew are shown swarming around a Skyraider fighter plane which made a crash-landing at the airstrip at Qui Nhon, South Viet Nam, Wednesday after knocking out the plane's hydraulic system during a combat strike in the general highlands. The pilot was uninjured. (UPI Telephoto)

Criminals Not Connected With Reds

South Viet To Execute 6 Despite Threat By Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The South Vietnamese government is reported planning five more executions Friday despite Viet Cong threats of reprisals against American prisoners.

Informants said no Communist reaction was expected because those to be executed were convicted of criminal activities in no way related to the Viet Cong.

A police source said three were convicted of murder, rape and robbery, one of murder and rape and another of murder.

When Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky became premier of South Viet Nam last June, he warned that his government would execute hoarders, speculators and war profiteers. So far, none of these executions have been carried out publicly.

Workmen today were enlarging the sandbag execution wall in Saigon's Central Market Place where a firing squad put two young Viet Cong terrorists to death earlier this year.

In retaliation, the Viet Cong executed Sgt. Harold Bennett of Perryville, Ark., on June 25.

The Viet Cong announced Monday they had executed another two American servicemen in reprisal for the shooting of three Viet Cong sympathizers at Da Nang two weeks ago. The Americans were Capt. Humbert R. Versace of Baltimore, Md., and Sgt. Kenneth M. Roraback, whose wife lives at Fayetteville, N.C.

Threats of more reprisals against captured Americans came in a letter from North Viet Nam to the International Red Cross in Geneva and in the official Hanoi newspaper Nhan Dan.

North Viet Nam told the Red Cross that captured American and South Vietnamese pilots will be tried as war criminals because they had "deliberately" bombed objects marked with the sign of the Red Cross. The State Department has denied this.

Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer, said in Washington "any effort to brand American pilots as war criminals and try them in kangaroo fashion would be a smoke screen for reprisals" for the execution of Communist terrorists by the South Vietnamese.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester said in Miami, Fla., that the Communist declaration was "a resort to primeval savagery."

Nhan Dan said Roraback and Versace "would have been put to death long ago had it not been for the lenient policy" of the Viet Cong.

The Communists indicated in a broadcast earlier this week that more Americans might be put to death if the South Vietnamese government continues to execute Communist agents.

U.S. officials in Saigon said 38 American military personnel are missing and many of them are believed to be in Viet Cong hands.

Air Force records in Washington list six pilots as prisoners and 29 others as missing. The Navy does not acknowledge that any of its pilots have been captured but three of them listed as missing have appeared in Communist photographs or films from North Viet Nam.

Most major war action reported today came from the air, a U.S. military spokesman said.

U.S. Air Force B52 bombers from Guam pounded a Viet Cong area 10 miles northeast of Tay Ninh and 60 miles northwest of Saigon. It was the 35th B52 raid of the war and the second in four days near the Cambodian border.

Four Air Force Phantoms and six Canberras made five armed reconnaissance missions during the night over North Viet Nam. The pilots said they dropped 25 tons of bombs on bridges, highways, trucks and buildings.

Weighs Special Deputy's Fate

Alabama Jury Still Seeks Verdict In Slaying Case

BULLETIN

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP)— A jury of 12 white men acquitted special Deputy Sheriff Thomas L. Coleman today of a manslaughter charge in the killing of a white civil rights worker, Jonathan M. Daniels.

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A jury tries again today to decide whether the killing of a civil rights worker was manslaughter or self defense.

Circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard sent the 12 white jurors to Montgomery for the night after they had failed to reach a verdict by 6 p.m. Wednesday in the manslaughter trial of Thomas L. Coleman, special deputy sheriff.

Thagard told them to "get a good night's rest and eat a good dinner and be back at 9 o'clock in the morning."

The jurors were sent to Montgomery, 25 miles northeast of Hayneville, because they must remain together in a homicide case and there are no facilities to house them in Hayneville.

Manslaughter, which under Alabama law is defined as a deliberate, unlawful taking of human life without malice, is punishable by one to 10 years in prison.

The jury got the case at 4:43 p.m. but immediately took a 15-minute recess before starting deliberations in a high-ceilinged room in the century-old Lowndes County Courthouse.

Defense attorneys, in closing arguments, readily conceded that Coleman, 55, a highway engineer, killed Jonathan M. Daniels, an Episcopal seminary student from Keene, N.H., and critically wounded the Rev. Richard Morrisroe of Chicago.

The shooting occurred on the afternoon of Aug. 20 in front of a country grocery store at Hayneville.

Defense attorneys contended that the churchmen were armed with a knife and pistol and that Coleman, a prominent Hayneville resident, fired two shots from a 12-gauge automatic shotgun in self defense.

While the jury was out, the judge conferred with state and defense attorneys in still another civil rights slaying, and postponed that trial until Oct. 18. It had been expected to start today.

Thagard said he did not believe it would be possible to finish the trial of Ku Klux Klansman Collie LeRoy Wilkins Jr., 21, by the end of this week.

And, because of a weighted docket in another county of his circuit, the judge said he could not let the Wilkins case run past the weekend.

Bus Hits, Kills Pony

WEST POINT — A pony owned by Doyle Gilkinson of near West Point was killed this morning about 4:55 when struck by a bus on Route 30, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Debbie Gives Coast Scare, Fizzles Out

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Tropical storm Debbie gave the Gulf Coast from Florida to Louisiana a scare and whipped a few gales ashore before she broke up about 30 miles south of Biloxi, Miss.

Debbie, which formed last Friday off the Mexican coast, got within 100 miles of Pensacola before she stalled and lost her strength to a cold front on the mainland Wednesday.

Flooding, which the Weather Bureau feared might be Debbie's worst threat, did not develop. However, a narrow strip of the Georgia coast near Brunswick got more than nine inches of rain, flooding airfields and drainage canals.

Carol, the last tropical storm which grew into a hurricane, was expected to brush the Azores with winds that could reach 60 miles an hour.

Soviet Expels Jaffe, ABC Correspondent

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today ordered the expulsion of Sam Jaffe, Moscow correspondent for the American Broadcasting Company.

The chief of the Soviet press department, Leonid Zamyatin, told Jaffe he had seven days to leave. Zamyatin said the ABC bureau was not being closed but the government had canceled a visa for George Watson, who was to replace Jaffe later this year.

Immigration Bill Due For Final Action

House Vote Slated; Would Wipe Out Origins Quota Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional action may be completed today on a bill which would wipe out the national origins quota system of immigration while, for the first time, limiting immigration from Western Hemisphere nations.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of a Senate-House Conference Committee that whipped the legislation into final form, said it would be called up for a House vote during the day.

Senate action to send the measure to President Johnson may follow quickly, although this would require laying aside other legislation temporarily.

The chief difference between the immigration bills previously passed by each branch was that the Senate voted to put a ceiling of 120,000 a year on immigrants from Canada, Mexico and other Western Hemisphere nations beginning July 1, 1968.

The House under strong pressure from the administration, had narrowly rejected a similar proposal.

However, the administration later abandoned the fight and the House conferees yielded to the Senate.

For nations outside the hemisphere, the bill provides for the admission of up to 170,000 immigrants annually with preference given to those with close family ties to U.S. citizens or with skills needed in this country. Emphasis is on the reunion of families.

Under present law, nations outside this hemisphere have an annual quota of 158,561 allotted on the basis of national origins of the U.S. population in 1920.

Johnson, in urging abolition of the quota system last January, said it is incompatible with the basic American tradition of asking "not where a person comes from but what are his personal qualities."

The bill sets no country-by-country quotas. However no more than 20,000 immigrants may be admitted annually from any single nation outside the Western Hemisphere.

Not subject to the numerical limitations in the bill are the husbands and wives, minor children and parents of U.S. citizens.

The present quota system is to be eliminated over three years. During this transition, unused quotas of countries with large quotas would be made available to nations like Italy and Greece that have oversubscribed quotas.

USW Ratifies Pact, Ending Bliss Strike

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Members of Local 4396, United Steelworkers, have ratified a contract agreement ending their strike against E. W. Bliss Co.'s plant here.

Don Hill president of the local, said the vote Wednesday night was 373 to 196. The workers will return to their jobs starting with the 11 p.m. shift Sunday, he added.

Complicates Relations, He Asserts

Holds Out Olive Branch To Chinese At Party Meeting

MOSCOW (AP) — The war in Viet Nam is freezing Soviet-American relations and the Soviet Union will continue to supply military aid to North Viet Nam, Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev says.

Reviewing Soviet foreign policy before the party central committee Wednesday, the bushy-browed first secretary also held out an olive branch to Red China.

Brezhnev said the war in Viet Nam "greatly complicated" Soviet relations with the United States and those relations "show a clearly evident tendency toward freezing."

"Normalization of our relations is incompatible with the armed aggression of American imperialism against a fraternal Socialist country — Viet Nam," he said.

"The nature of the further development of our relations with the United States will depend on whether or not the leaders of this country will show enough common sense to abandon the policy of aggressive attacks."

U.S. officials in Washington found nothing surprising in Brezhnev's speech. For months, U.S. leaders have recognized that there is no prospect for substantial improvement in U.S.-Soviet relations while the two governments are so sharply divided over the war in Viet Nam.

Brezhnev said that the Soviet Union, as "the strongest and best developed Socialist power," had already given Communist North Viet Nam considerable military aid.

"This aid will be continued," he said.

Brezhnev said that British support of American policy in Viet Nam also "substantially hampered" Moscow's relations with London.

He again attacked West German "militarism" and warned that the Warsaw Pact nations of Communist Eastern Europe would take steps to strengthen their defense. He said there are "no possibilities for fruitful development of relations with West Germany" even though trade continues.

Jury Acquits Woman In Husband's Slaying

BEAVER — A jury of 10 men and 2 women deliberated for four hours Wednesday before acquitting a pregnant 32-year-old woman in the pistol slaying of her husband last May.

Mrs. Carol St. Clair of New Sewickley Township had been charged by police with shooting her 40-year-old husband, Donald St. Clair, five times with a pistol while they sat in a car parked in the driveway of their home on May 16.

Johnson Signs Bill For 'GI' Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed into law Wednesday a bill providing group life insurance for men and women in the armed forces.

About $2 a month will buy the serviceman or servicewoman $10,000 coverage. A smaller contribution will provide a $5,000 policy.

Not to be covered are those who specify in writing that they do not wish to be.

Along Ineffective Cease-Fire Line

India, Pakistan Armies Dig In For More Fighting

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India and Pakistan dug in today for what promised to be more bloody skirmishing along the ineffective U.N. cease-fire line between their armies.

Spokesmen for both nations continued to adopt uncompromising stands that appeared to leave no prospect of a significant troop withdrawal or long-range peace settlement.

Both armies nervously fenced with each other, sending out patrols, consolidating their positions in several sectors and continued the shootings.

The United Nations, which arranged the cease-fire on Sept. 28, still did not have enough observers to patrol the front. The chief U.N. officer, Maj. Gen. Bruce McDonald of Canada, reportedly crossed no-man's land in the Lahore sector in an effort to quiet the skirmishing.

McDonald was reported proposing that both armies initially withdraw 500 yards along the Lahore front, where their forward units now faced each other across the 100-foot-wide Ichhogil Canal.

A U.N. spokesman in New York said Secretary-General U Thant had asked several Communist East European governments to contribute to the U.N. observer force. Yugoslavia is the only Communist nation which has received such a request in the past.

Both sides were charging cease-fire violations along the front stretching from Himalayan Kashmir southwest almost to the Arabian Sea Coast.

Some of the heaviest fighting was reported in the great Indian desert covering much of India's Rajasthan State and the adjoining Hyderabad area of southern West Pakistan.

The Pakistani defenders said they inflicted heavy csaualties and captured five Indian officers, including a battalion commander.

India claimed it was winning the desert fighting, causing the Pakistanis "grievous losses in men and equipment." A defense ministry spokesman said 27 Pakistanis were killed and 26 captured when their units tried to infiltrate the West Indian state.

Meet Again Friday

Rusk, Gromyko Talk 'Fruitless'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko talked about disarmament and the India-Pakistan conflict Wednesday night without producing any noticeable thaw in U.S.-Soviet relations.

The two did agree to meet again Friday night, at the headquarters of the Soviet U.N. Mission.

This was in line with advance predictions. In their initial meeting, a three-hour dinner at Rusk's hotel suite, the two engaged in what U.S. sources described as a general "feeling out" of their diplomatic positions.

"Relaxed," "friendly" and "businesslike" were terms appled to the first such U.S.-Soviet discussions since Rusk and Gromyko attended the last U.N. General Assembly session in December 1964.

A chilling note arrived from Moscow just as the talks began. Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev declared that "the armed aggression of American imperialism" in Viet Nam imposed "a clearly evident tendency toward freezing" of Soviet-American relations.

U.S. officials downgraded this as Kremlin propaganda for Communist consumption. But it fit a pattern of Soviet gruffness on a number of fronts ranging from anti-American propaganda invective to harassment of U.S.-Soviet cultural exchanges.

The current interpretation by U.S. officials is that Moscow, caught up in its rivalry with Peking for leadership of the Communist camp, is being pressed into tougher-sounding positions than it would prefer. The Red Chinese are accusing the Kremlin of collaborating with Washington.

Gromyko declined to comment to newsmen Wednesday night about Brezhnev's speech. Nor would he say there had been "progress" in U.S.-Soviet relations from his talk with Rusk.

Substitute (Referendum) Approved

House Gives President's Home-Rule Plan 'The Ax'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Home rule for the District of Columbia, in the form President Johnson pushed with all the powers of his office, is dead for this year.

A rebellious House, after passing all the major bills the President asked for this year, gave his home-rule plan the ax Wednesday.

Instead, it approved a substitute plan calling for a referendum by District residents and the setting up of a charter commission to study the type of self-government the city should have.

The capital now is governed by Congress and a three-man commission appointed by the president.

Home-rule supporters, faced with the choice of the substitute plan or nothing, backed the substitute offered by Rep. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif. The final vote was 283 to 117.

The Senate already has passed the administration home-rule bill calling for direct election of a mayor and City Council next year.

Said Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate District Committee: "The Sisk bill and the Senate bill seem so far apart I don't see how they can be reconciled."

Bible said, however, that if the White House indicates it wants the Sisk bill "the Senate might take another look at it."

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma was pessimistic.

"We won't get a bill this year, and we will be lucky to get one next year," he told reporters after the House vote. "It's a dead duck for this session."

Rep. Charles M. Mathias, R-Md., one of the shapers of the bipartisan compromise bill the House rejected, called for a Senate-House conference.

Taal Volcano Erupts More Steam, Lava

More Evacuations Ordered; Deaths Estimated At 500

MANILA (AP)—The Taal volcano hurled steam and lava 2,000 feet into the air today while rescuers tried to determine how many persons died in the volcano's eruption Tuesday.

New evacuation measures were ordered along the lake surrounding the tiny volcanic island 40 miles south of Manila.

The volcano had subsided Tuesday night but continued to rumble and emit smoke and steam. Arturo Alcaraz, director of the Commission of Volcanology, said the new crater formed by the eruption Tuesday had widened to a diameter of about 1,640 feet.

The Philippine constabulary (state police) estimated about 500 persons may have been killed Tuesday. About 2,000 Filipinos lived on the volcano's slopes, and the first rescue parties to reach the island feared most had been killed. But more and more were turning up in refugee camps.

Rescue workers said they found ashes and volcanic debris 30 feet deep in places and saw no immediate sign of human life. Only rooftops showed in some villages.

Albania Blast At U.S., Soviet Looms At U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Albania, Red China's voice in the United Nations, was expected to blast the United States and the Soviet Union before the General Assembly today and to take a few sideswipes at India.

Diplomats predicted that Albania's peppery foreign minister, Behar Shtylla, would echo the Peking line that the United States is waging aggressive war against the Vietnamese people and that Russia has become an accomplice of the West.

There was also speculation that Shtylla would denounce India as the aggressor in the Pakistan conflict and accuse New Delhi of poaching on Red Chinese soil.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise:

Patent and synthetic plastic, patent-type purses are something which must be cared for before packing away.

Here's how I keep mine in perfect condition from year to year.

I rub the outside of the bag thoroughly with a soft cloth (I use a terry cloth wash rag) which has been dipped in petroleum jelly.

Then, if you wrap the purse in an old bath towel, it will be ready to pack away for the season. The reason for the towel is that it will keep indentations from marring the purse.

DORIS LINDSLEY.

Absolutely true!

Even when I put my black or white patent purse on a shelf, during the season, I always wrap it in an old bath towel. Saves those horrid marks. . . .

HELOISE.

Home Permanents

DEAR HELOISE:

This is for the ladies who give home permanents:

I buy a package of sponge rubber pads that are made to to under brush hair rollers. They are ideal for applying waving lotion, since they can be wrung out easily.

They're so much better than cotton.

DAWN MORTENSON.

Sandwiches

DEAR HELOISE:

Whenever I have to make a large batch of sandwiches (for a party, picnic, etc.), I use my ice cream scoop to dish out the filling for each sandwich.

The schoop holds just the right amount of filling, and the sandwiches are all the SAME thickness.

CORA WILLIAMS.

And, did you know that the average ice cream scoop holds exactly one-fourth cup?

HELOISE.

Household Hints

DEAR HELOISE:

Try cleaning a bathrub with your floor sponge mop.

Sprinkle cleanser on bottom of tub, and proceed from there. No more strain on the back, from bending over, and no more stretching to reach the back of the tub.

It is easy, and it does a good job!

MRS. HELEN LUTZ.

DEAR HELOISE:

I have followed the advice of a recognized plumber, and because of its effect, I am passing it on to anyone who is interested.

Keep a large jub of white vinegar handy. Pour one cup of it down each of your drains kitchen sink, all bathroom drains, as well as laundry tubs; from time to time before retiring at night.

In the morning, pour hot water down the drains freely. That's all.

We have not nad a plumbing bill since.

EDITH BRENTZ.

Ladies, this hint is pouring in, even from plumbers themselves.

It doesn't make any difference whether the vinegar is white or not—pure vinegar is acetic acid.

And, remember, when buying vinegar, look on the bottle to see if it is four per cent or five per cent. Five per cent, at 50 cents a bottle is cheaper than four per cent at 47 cents a bottle!

Watch your pennies, gals. Pennies make dollars, and dollars seem to be what it takes to walk into any store now!

HELOISE.

Letter Of Laughter

DEAR HELOISE:

Housewives are really very clever people, aren't they?

In fact . . . I don't think they get enough recognition, but your column helps to advertise us, and we sure do appreciae it!

MRS. S. E. WILLIAMS.

DEAR HELOISE:

In the Army, we always used saddle soap to remove grease from shoes.

Coed's 'Big Sister' Turns Out To Be Male

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Like hundreds of other freshmen women at Bowling Green State University, Sue Codington of Euclid was assigned a "big sister" to help her adjust to college life.

But Sue's first meeting with Pat Smith, a junior from Fremont, was a shock.

"Big Sis" turned out to be a strapping male.

Smith submitted his name to the Women Students' Association as a joke last spring, but has since decided he likes the job.

He'll even accompany Sue to the "big-little sis" picnic Saturday.

Ford Trims 1966 Prices $73 Average

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. Wednesday announced suggested retail prices on its 1966 model cars and said the prices were a reduction over comparable prices for 1965 models.

Ford, the last of the automobile industry's Big Three to reveal its 1966 price list, said new car prices on all Ford models represented a reduction averaging $73. Ford said the reductions reflect a $58 continuation of the full, federal excise tax reduction now in effect.

The price list, Ford said, included provisions for standard accessory items, particularly safety items, which were optional on the company's 1965 models.

Ford said the price list represents the seventh year in a row the company has introduced new cars without a price increase.

Included in the list, were (allowing for the $58 excise tax reduction) price reductions on 49 models and increases on 13.

Of the new increases, Ford said most were for what the company termed its "all - new, substantially upgraded" Comet line. Ford said the Comet has been moved from the compact car category to the intermediate class.

Seven accessories option on Ford's 1965 models now are listed as standard on 1966 company cars.

Just Below The Cream Line

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System, knows better than anyone else that something is wrong with a rejection rate that runs better than 50 per cent.

His revelation to the National Guard Association that he is considering a plan to draft a sizable quota of rejectees for emergency duty will get the attention due a statement from an authoritative official.

Would it not be in order while giving attention to the Hershey proposal to wonder if something may be wrong with draft standards so high they eliminate a disproportionately large number of potential draftees?

It is understandable that the military services should prefer topnotch men.

It is understandable that available manpower has been picked over in advance by recruiting officers before the Selective Service System gets a crack at it.

But it is not understandable that in a society of equals which depends on a civilian draft to keep its military services manned there should be so massive a residue of "unfit" manpower.

Critics who leap to the conclusion that this signifies widespread inadequacy are hard put to defend their point of view when it is pointed out that among the rejects are professional athletes and other physical specimens qualified to hold down exacting jobs in civilian life.

Sociologists, moreover, are aware that potential draftees rejected for other than physical reasons often maintain positions in civilian society without undue friction. And criminologists might point to the probability of improvement among men who have broken the law if put under a regimen of close discipline.

It would be wonderful if the United States could rely solely on the cream of the crop for military service. But just below the cream line there must be many American men who could qualify for military service — and did during World War II.

Many of the vital bastions of the American way of life are being occupied and staunchly defended by Americans who could not pass Gen. Hershey's pre-induction examination.

International Set

The Tri-state area may not be the crossroads of the world, such as Times Square, but it certainly is gaining an international flavor.

As the latest illustration—visits by German engineers at Wellsville, a stay by a native of India near Salem and a planned trip by Gordon Starkey to Europe on Ohio's first trade mission all were reported in Wednesday's Review.

More and more district residents are visiting foreign lands as tourists and service personnel and an increasing number of people from other lands are coming to the United States on business, pleasure or for study.

Steel and other district products are shipped across the earth and the complex political and economic ties with nations and events on other continents have a growing effect upon us.

This international contact cannot help but mean better understanding between people and sympathy with their problems, the first step toward a permanent and reasonable peace with freedom.

An Awkward Arrangement

Sentiment and reason are on a collision course in the matter of Viet Cong executions of United States military personnel.

Sentiment demands that civilization be preserved despite the expediencies of a cruel war and that the Viet Cong be strongly condemned for its ruthless policy of killing prisoners who do not believe in such ruthlessness.

But reason says that the Viet Cong hardly can be expected to think about civilization and the attitude of U.S. prisoners.

The U.S. prisoners are allies of the South Vietnamese, who are known to kill Viet Cong prisoners and to torture them in the hope of bringing out information that might prove useful.

When U.S. prisoners are taken they are in the same category with South Vietnamese prisoners, as far as the Viet Cong can see. There is no distinction in the kind of war being fought—no more than there would be between Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

It is an awkward arrangement, as many military alliances are. It is as awkward as that arrangement in World War II when the United States and the Soviet Union were cheek by jowl. It is as awkward as it would be to end up cheek by jowl in some future war with the Germans, or perchance with the Japanese, and expect their enemies to distinguish between an enemy they hated and one that claimed to be entitled to decent treatment.

In short, it seems far-fetched and wishful to expect the Viet Cong to be civilized about U.S. prisoners when no one expects them to be civilized about their fellow countrymen. Civilized? What place does civilization have in a war to the death?

Unwelcome Signs

Unwelcome signs of winter—Ohio Highway Department crews are stockpiling salt in key areas in preparation for ice and snow and the Board of Control here will open bids soon on a new hopper-body truck to be used for ash spreading.

The many beautiful days of fall are still ahead, but with each falling leaf you can be sure that we're that much closer to the salt and the ashes.

Still Open To Question

When World War II ended in Europe, militarists were ready to concede air power was not the definitive element—only one of several definitive elements.

Germany had been punished cruelly from the air but was not defeated until ground troops smothered resistance.

When World War II ended in the Pacific, militarists conceded that air power had been definitive only in conjunction with nuclear bombing. Japan's fighting power had been hurt but not destroyed by conventional bombing with explosives and napalm.

Air power was not a definitive element in Korea, where nuclear bombs were not used.

Will air power be the definitive element in Viet Nam, where the United States monopolizes air space with its planes and pilots?

Claims again are made that air power can do the job and that something has happened to the conventional pattern of militarism which decrees that no victory has been reached until the enemy's ground space has been conquered.

The claims are being taken with a grain of salt, as they should be.

Unquestionably, its monopoly of air space in the Vietnamese war is a tremendous advantage for the United States. Without it, the opposition could keep U.S. troops backed up against the coastline indefinitely.

No war could be won in modern times without superiority of air power; that is unquestionable. But it is still questionable whether superiority of air power is enough in itself to win a war, especially a war against an enemy fighting on his own ground.

Until his ground has been occupied, no victory can be claimed in a non-nuclear war.

The Injury List

By Truman Twill

If other private enterprise took injuries into account the way the baseball and football businesses do, the prospectus for profitable effort would read like this:

A dark cloud wreathed the Huff-and-Puff Widgit Works after last week's effort to get out the rush order for Callem and Stallem Corp.

President Nitpicker was showing the effects of carrying an ice pack on his head after an overdose of a widely advertised brand of blended tranquillizer. During the weekend the Old Man let down so far he never picked himself up until Tuesday morning.

John C. (Whooping) Crane, vice president in charge of production, was out of character with an attack of laryngitis that robbed him of his principal executive qualification—his voice. It was a question whether the Whooper would be able to remember all the employes failing to be visibly intimidated by his silence.

Miss Petunia Pleasem, President Nitpicker's long-time private secretary, was showing the strain of double duty, trying to keep the office running while toadying to her boss's post binge whims. Long-time observers noted for the first time that Petunia's cool hands were trembling. That is where secretaries usually go to pieces first—in those indispensable hands. Petunia may have had it. She is 38, an age when most secretaries, well . . .

The Huff-and-Puff comptroller, Adam Haddem II, insisted he would be all right in time for the monthly report, but long-time business acquaintances who knew him when he broke into the numbers game with Ponzi years ago, were puzzled. They said they couldn't remember ever seeing him twitch before and surmised he might have things on his mind he couldn't divulge without jeopardizing his double indemnity clause.

Other injuries to the squad were considered routine by the plant physician—the sort of thing to be expected after a big week of widgiting.

The office manager, Calvin Brusk, was having a dustup with his chronic gastric ulcer.

The chief switchboard operator was limping on her trips to the coffee machine but insisted it was nothing more serious than an ingrown toenail.

I. M. Salavshus, the Japanese designer, was observed with his head down on his arms at his desk, but prying reporters learned he was studying life in microcosm, hoping to come up with fresh ideas for a line of patented pickle forks.

Others among key personnel nursing bruises but who expected to be ready for the next rush order were K. Lean Swean, head of the maintenance department, Cuti Pi, the Korean file clerk, and Nancy Panzi, the natural blonde who always says she would rather take dictation than eat.

Elsewhere, the common complaint was ennui, that strange occupational ailment of industrial athletes. All insisted that a letdown was to be expected after a rush order but not to sell Huff-and-Puff short.

Spending Blamed In Money Muddle

By DAVID LAWRENCE

David Lawrence

Bankers and financial officials from various governments of the world are meeting in Washington this week to discuss informally the problems of international payments, with the hope of maintaining sound money. Just a few blocks away, in the various departments of the U.S. government, the spending of public funds is growing rapidly and there is a seeming indifference to the preservation of sound money.

It's surprising indeed what little concern is being displayed throughout this country in the prospective rise of treasury deficits during the next few years which could require an increase in taxes.

The big alibi in Washington today is the Viet Nam War. This is being blamed for the rise of government expenses. One would suppose that the brakes would be applied on nonmilitary expenditures, but that isn't the case at all.

There's no denying that the Viet Nam War expenses will cause the federal cash budget and military outlaws to climb sharply, but at the same time there is no diminution in the welfare type of spending which is presenting the threat of bigger and bigger deficits for the next few years.

IN THE 1966 fiscal-year budget presented in January of this year, cash receipts were estimated at $123.5 billion and cash outlays at $127.4 billion, resulting in a cash deficit of $3.9 billion. Now unofficial estimates indicate that receipts will go up to $124.6 billion, and outlays will be increased to $130.2 billion, producing a $5.6 billion deficit.

Again, for fiscal year 1967, the estimates indicate another rise in cash outlays, probably to about $143.1 billion, with receipts climbing to $135 billion. The resulting cash deficit of $8.1 billion would be the largest since the $13.1 billion deficit in fiscal year 1959. These figures, obtained from various economists, indicate that the estimates for spending are relatively low and conservative, and there are indications that the outflow may grow to even larger totals.

Military expenditures, which today are increasing abnormally, could, of course, be curtailed if there were a change in the Southeast Asia situation. It now looks as if the total military budget in fiscal year 1966 will wind up at $50 billion and will rise to $53.8 billion in the year beginning next July 1. Not all the increases are due to the Viet Nam War.

THERE HAVE been some liberal pay raises for the armed forces, and there are more in prospect next year. Civilian employees in the military establishment also probably will get increases. Hence, altogether the outlay on the military side is showing signs of rising substantially.

Meanwhile, very little is being done to hold down expenditures in the nondefense field. There always has been a debate as to whether the formula should be "guns or butter" or "butter and guns". It's the latter which is being applied today. This means that, despite the higher defense expenditures due to the Viet Nam War and other causes, the spending on the welfare side is continuing upward without regard to the prospect of larger and larger deficits.

The argument is being made by the administration that wage-price stability has been maintained and that prices have not risen sufficiently to threaten any serious inflation.

IT'S POINTED OUT, for example, that wage raises obtained by labor unions have compensated for increases in the cost of living. This doesn't take into consideration the plight of those workers who are not beneficiaries of the organized union pressure which is exerted in major industries. Only about 22 per cent of the nation's 77-million labor force are members of labor unions, according to latest figures.

The biggest single influence, however, which is operating at present to cause uneasiness is the growth of federal deficits and the continuance of such deficits over the next several years. This can mean only that public confidence in the monetary unit may in time be adversely affected. Perhaps another international conference may have to be called in Washington some day to find ways and means of saving the American dollar from rapid depreciation.

'Kids Got It Easy Today. In Our Time We Didn't Drop Out—We Wuz Kicked Out'

U.S. Must Stay Strong And Solvent

By Henry Taylor

The American scene takes on new proportions after two months abroad. The miracle of Mighty America—incomparable America, with only 7 per cent of the world's population—is reborn with fresh force.

The economic revival in Europe is interesting and beneficial. Europe today is producing more steel than we are. (In England, nevertheless, it takes three men to produce a ton of steel, whereas one can do it in the United States). But the economic revival abroad is not decisive.

The West German government can side handsomely with us, the Labor government can fight for its life in Great Britain, the Vatican can work against the Communists in Italy, but none of these things is decisive.

Vested interests in Europe, a little giddy over their own prosperity, are making a shambles of our tariff liberalization proposals at Geneva. They rig the formula so "free trade" is only a one-way street and often make our American market the victim of their outlets.

Petrarch saw Italy covered with sores no words could cure—only deeds. In Rome, I found that deep under the surface boom little has changed.

BRITAIN BUYS heavily from Red China. Then Red China uses British funds to bring pressure deliberately on the pound sterling.

If the British policy must be that devious it still should not be that foolish. None of this, however, is decisive.

I attended President Charles de Gaulle's news conference at the Elysee Palace in Paris. I put a question — on France's anti - American policy in Viet Nam — to De Gaulle. He prearranges the questions and prepares his answers in advance, so his surprise was notably evident on the French TV. But even mystic De Gaulle is more of a problem than a true force.

He can behave like Chanticleer, the rooster who came to believe that the sun arose because he crowed at dawn, but this is not decisive.

In Europe, intrigue is a way of life centuries old. Most Europeans are cynics by experience and many regard us as fools by the lack of it.

Nevertheless, Europe today lives only under the shield of our great atomic retaliatory force, without which the Continent could have no independence whatever from the Soviet Union on the same land mass and might well have been occupied by the Russians long ago.

This shield alone allows the free nations to neglect their own defenses. Actually, much of their economic recovery is due to the savings made on the military side, to say nothing of the gift billions our taxpayers have supplied.

Yes, sometimes it seems that we're more worried about the Europeans than they are about themselves. But our security remains indivisible from theirs, largely unthanked or not.

Whether this can be sustained uniquely and entirely depends on what happens inside the United States.

THE RESPONSIBILITIES we face are thrust upon us by the certainty that the Western Alliance is shaky and the Sino-Soviet menace will continue.

Europe alone would be enough, but these responsibilities are global. We are already deep in a Southeast Asia land war. We are committed to protect the U.S. dollar and (intertwined) the British pound in our gold crises. We have to prepare against any potential downturn in the U.S. business cycle.

Each of these responsibilities is unlimited, but we do not hold the initiative for the control of a single one of them.

President Johnson must make immediate inventory of our responsibilities vs. our capabilities. There is a point beyond which our responsibilities at home and those thrust on us abroad become unworkable. Mr. Johnson cannot merely pile on new spendings for the Great Society without weighing this balance.

There are no boundaries to human needs. The President cannot safely continue to think only of our needs. He must put priorities on his spendings — and at once. For if economic or other events conspire against us there is no strong country standing by to help the United States.

I return imbued with the lesson of the hare and the tortoise, because our great problem is clearly the long - term problem.

Failing to be strong, we invite world aggression. Failing to remain solvent, we defeat ourselves.

Old-Fashioned Flavor

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The present Supreme Court, thoroughly sensitive and responsive to the times and perhaps the most courageous court in American history, is in one way as old fashioned as its ancestors.

That's in the way it writes its opinions. Too often they sound like a private dialogue with the legal profession. And too many are tough going even for lawyers.

The reason: Ramblings, obscurities, poor organization, lack of literary discipline, and the failure to keep the reader always in mind, whether he's a lawyer or not.

There might have been some excuse for this in the 19th century when the court dealt with problems which did not affect the general public as quickly or directly as today. But today there is no excuse.

The court, like any agency of government, has an obligation to reach the people as clearly as possible. For its own sake, the court should try, since it has long been under angry and often distorted criticism.

In this problem of letting the people understand its actions, the court could be doing for itself what it is now depending on others to do for it. Newsmen are the first ones who have to undertake this job.

For some of them, especially those regularly covering the court for the news services, speed is essential. They must get their stories on the wires as soon as possible.

Except on opinion day, these news service reporters spend the week preparing themselves by digesting the briefs which the opposing lawyers file with the court to explain their positions.

Even so, on opinion day these reporters in telephone booths on a lower floor, waiting for the opinions which come down to them through pneumatic tubes when the court releases them, must begin a search for the decision.

It may be near the top, in the middle, at the end. If it's unusually obscure, there may be mistakes. There have been in the past and will be again, no matter how informed or intelligent the reporter is.

Meanwhile, other reporters, less pressed for time, flock to the Supreme Court's press office on opinion day to pick up copies of the opinions. They, too, have to search for the decision and in addition may have to search for background.

And in many cases if a newspaper, in addition to its news story, wants to publish the full text of an opinion the reader is left dangling unless he has read the story or the paper prefaces the text with an explanation of the case.

The court itself realizes its opinions need some clarifying explanation on issues, points of law and the decisions, even for lawyers, as this will show:

Before the opinions are published in law books — called United States Reports — the court's official reporter, with the justices' approval, prefaces these opinions with explanations called "headnotes."

If lawyers need this additional enlightenment, the average reader certainly does. The court, in writing its opinions, could do one of two things to be sure its opinions are equally clear to newsmen, readers and lawyers:

1. Provide an explanatory "headnote" with each opinion as it is handed out, either as part of the opinion or separate from it.

2. Or, state the case, the issue, the point of law and the decision in the first paragraph or two and then go on to explain how the opinion was reached.

Justice Tom Clark provided a beautiful example of how it could be done earlier this year when he wrote the majority opinion throwing out the conviction of Billie Sol Estes for swindling because his trial was televised against his will. Clark stated the problem and the decision in the first paragraph.

No one able to read could have had trouble understanding the whole opinion.

Like many others, the justices have an affection for old procedures and cling to them. They used to hand down opinions on one day only, Monday. On some Mondays, particularly the last court day of the year, they dished out a whole batch of opinions. There was no excuse for this, either.

Many newspapers which could treat one or two big decisions fully couldn't, for lack of space, do this with a batch of them. The public was always the loser. After years of prodding, the court changed and this year began handing down decisions on other days besides Monday.

A professor of law at Catholic University here, Arthur John Keefe, writing last May in the American Bar Journal, said: "If the Vatican can reform its church procedures, the Supreme Court ought to be able to come into the 20th century."

Men's Camp In Operation 2 Months

West Virginia Job Corps Center Faces Tough Task

Camp Anthony the first federal men's Job Corps Center in West Virginia, has been in operation almost two months. This is a report on the Center by Associated Press staff writer Kenneth Freed, who recently spent two days at the camp.

By KENNETH J. FREED

NEOLA, W. Va. (AP) — The first federal men's Job Corps Center in West Virginia faces a rugged task. Its aim is to provide its enrollees with the education and skills necessary to compete in nation's dynamic and automated economy.

To do this, the staff at Camp Anthony Job Corps Center uses a combination of unorthodox teaching methods, work, counseling and recreation.

Unorthodox methods are necessary. Most of the 75 young men who have come to the camp since its Aug. 10 opening are school dropouts and almost 7 per cent couldn't read or write.

Most are from the bottom of the economic well. They come from broken homes, have had inadequate diets and a large number had never been to a dentist or undergone an eye examination.

An overwhelming majority could not even meet the minimal education requirements to be drafted into the Army.

The future for these young men before the Job Corps was bleak with little chance that they could break the poverty cycle that affects a quarter of this nation's population.

The camp itself is made up of several prefabricated buildings and has a staff of 26 teachers, work leaders, cooks and clerks. It is located 17 miles northeast of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and the same distance north of Covington, Va.

The Job Corps is operated by the Office of Economic Opportunity in conjunction with the U.S. Forestry Service. Camp Anthony's director is 38-year-old Robert McCarthy, a veteran of the Forestry Service.

The goal of Camp Anthony is to provide its enrollees with the reading and math skills to handle elementary instruction manuals and bookkeeping problems. And to give them rudimentary job skills.

When a corpsman completes his training at Camp Anthony, he can be sent to an urban Job Corps Center for more advanced training in such skills as electronics, auto machenics and equipment operations.

The teaching methods used at the camp are quite simple, logical and successful when compared to the conventional public school systems which, for one reason or another, failed to meet the needs of the center's residents.

The stress is on individual needs. The students work at their own speed, there are no grades and no grading in the usual sense. Tests are not competitive and the institutional feeling of a large public school is missing.

Most important, the number of students for each teacher is small, about 1 to 12 and the stress is on individual attention.

It is not unusual in a public grade school to have one teacher for 30 or more students.

The teachers are selected carefully. All are college graduates and most have masters degrees. The instructors I met and observed at Camp Anthony were dedicated, enthusiastic and had a strong desire to help the boys.

This is important. Most of the corpsmen I talked with said this was the first time teachers had paid attention to them and weren't impatient when they had problems in class.

The boys also said the camp's teachers don't act like policemen. My observation bore this out. The classrooms are conducted in an informal manner, although the instructors demand and get respect.

All these factors provide an atmosphere the corpsmen seem to respond to, and may explain, in part, why Camp Anthony is succeeding where the public schools failed.

Equally important is the center's work program. Staff members say the boys have to be shown the relationship of education to employment, as well as the value of work itself.

Work leaders teach the use of hand tools and simple machinery. Eventually, many corpsmen will be taught to use construction equipment and to repair motors. Some are being trained to be cooks.

In addition, the corpsmen do conservation work in federal forests. They also do maintenance work around the camp and take part in preparing defenses against the forest fires expected this fall.

I was told the boys generally are enthusiastic workers. They take their jobs seriously and are obviously proud of their accomplishments.

Address On Stamp Pins Down Gambler

CINCINNATI (AP)—"I should have known better than to put my home address on the stamp," police quoted Noah Clayton Hart, 41, as saying Wednesday when he was charged with being a common gambler.

Hart surrendered after a phone call from police when the Internal Revenue Service issued its listing of federal wagering stamps in the area. Hart was the only stamp holder with a Cincinnati address.

29 Forest Fire Wardens Named In 11 Townships

With the fall forest fire season opening today, the New Philadelphia district office of the Division of Forestry has named 29 county men as wardens in 11 townships.

The district office pointed out the burning season will continue through November, with permits required for all fires kindled in the open air outside the corporation limits of cities and villages.

The local forest fire wardens will issue the permits free of charge, the district office said, warning that burning without a permit or allowing a fire to escape control is a violation of state forest fire laws and violators can be prosecuted.

Named as forest fire wardens in Liverpool Township were John O. Gilson, Harry C. Smith of Dixonville and Homer L. Cronin, 2117 LaCroft St.

The St. Clair Township wardens are Elmer Hiles, manager of Beaver Creek State Park, Warren Smith of R. D. 1, Laura Mae Smith of R. D. 2, George J. Hamilton and Thurman E. Rambo of Lisbon St. and Harold Thompson of Glenmoor.

The other wardens and their addresses by townships are:

Center, Thomas Senanefes, 583 Washington St., Lisbon; Elkrun, Lisbon R. D. 5 and Olin H. Evans of Elkton; Franklin, Carl N. Blake of Hanoverton R. D. 1 and Paul Crawford of Kensington R. D. 1.

Hanover, Nellie Strahn of Hanoverton R. D. 1, Leland E. Faloon of Hanoverton and Walter J. Burbick and R. Max Gard of Lisbon R. D. 4; Madison, Hugh W. Jack of Wellsville R. D. 1 and Charles R. Heffner of Scotch Settlement;

Middleton, James V. Mackall and Donald H. Williams of Rogers R. D. 1, Glenn C. Rhodes of Rogers and Donald C. Mahon of Negley R. D. 1; Washington, Clarence F. Francis Jr. of Salineville R. D. 1 and Elmer Lohman of Salineville R. D. 2; Wayne, R. Bruce Thorne of Salineville R. D. 1, and Yellow Creek, George R. Boyd of Wellsville R. D. 1 and Fire Chief Robert W. Lewis of Wellsville.

4 Uninjured In 2 Crashes

A city man escaped injuries in a two-car collision near Lisbon Tuesday and two women drivers from Lisbon and East Palestine were shaken but unhurt in a crash east of Lisbon yesterday.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said a car operated by Israel Sable, 50, of Pittsburgh struck the side of one driven by Sidney W. Jones, 51, of 623 Blackmore St. on Route 30 about four miles south of the county seat.

Both were headed north and Sable attempted to pass Jones as the latter started to make a left turn. Sable's 1963 sedan went to the left where he lost control on loose gravel and his car hit the side of Jones' 1964 sedan owned by the Ohio Power Co.

Judith Ann Arthur, 23, of 63 S. Market St., East Palestine, and Dianna Marie Serago, 21, of 503 E. Chestnut St., Lisbon, escaped injury when their convertibles collided on Route 517 about three miles east of Lisbon.

Officers said the Lisbon woman was headed east and after traveling over a hill crest came upon another auto halted to make a turn into a driveway.

She slammed on the brakes to avoid a crash, but went left of center and her car struck the rear side of the East Palestine woman's car, which then rammed a mailbox.

The Lisbon woman was cited for driving left of center.

Canton NAACP Asks Dismissal Of Jury Group

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The Canton branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has called for the dismissal of the Stark County Jury Commission for alleged discrimination in selecting jurors.

John T. Green, branch president, made the request Wednesday in a letter to Stark County Common Pleas Court judges and municipal judges in Canton, Massillon and Alliance.

Green said the NAACP had met with the commission in February, 1961, in "regard to the flagrant and deliberate dismissal of Negroes as prospective jurors."

He also said the NAACP later met with common pleas judges and was assured that corrective action would be taken.

Green said lawyers indicate they will appeal convictions handed down recently by juries chosen from the commission's lists.

Liquor Law Enforcement Held Local Responsibility

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Enforcement of Ohio's liquor laws —including that against sales on Sunday—is mostly a local matter.

"The primary responsibility for enforcing liquor laws rests with the local community...we are only a supplementary agency," says State Liquor Director Donald Cook.

Cook has a 60-man enforcement staff. But with 25,000 places licensed to sell beer, wine, whisky or other alcoholic beverages, that's just one man for each 4,200 establishments. And Cook's staff also covers such things as bootlegging.

Cook thinks most people obey liquor laws and that 99 per cent of the people would observe them if they knew them. But many people are ignorant of some parts of the law.

Cook sites the Sunday sales law as an example.

He recently stirred up the country club set by mailing to all private club license holders a notice that sale or consumption of liquor in a licensed place is illegal on Sunday.

Some termed that a "crackdown." Cook insists it was just a reminder—that the law's been on the books since 1933.

He says the law has been enforced by previous administrations, as well as his, but that enforcement is largely a local matter.

Cook's agency will investigate complaints of violations, but his staff is too small for agents to check all the thousands of clubs just to see whether they are keeping the bars closed on Sunday.

Cook sent out the remainder to make sure all club operators knew they could lose their licenses for Sunday sales.

Complaints prompted this reminder, he says. He attributes an increase in the number of complaints to a recent controversy in the legislature over a bill to legalize Sunday sales of liquor.

It led a number of tavern and restaurant operators to complain, along such lines as, "we can't sell on Sundays, now what are you going to do about the country clubs that are selling on Sunday?"

Cook has no plans to send agents prowling through clubs. His agents will work with local law enforcement officers enforcing the Sunday sales law against country clubs, just as he says state agents cooperate with local officers in any other facet of liquor law enforcement.

Highway Beauty Bill Runs Into New Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's highway beauty bill, which has taken some ugly knocks in its travels through the House, faces new trouble today.

The bill, in which Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson has shown great interest, is caught in as pretty a fight as the Rules Committee has seen all year.

Even the staunchest administration supporters on the committee found little good in the bill Wednesday and if they vote the way they talk, it will never be cleared for floor action. A vote could come today but no action has been definitely set.

The bill already has been passed by the Senate. Outside of commercial areas, it would require the removal of all billboards within 660 feet of the major highways of the nation. Junkyards within 1,000 feet of main roads would also have to be moved unless they can be screened from the motorists' view.

Complaints against the measure at Wednesday's session covered both its content and the manner in which it was moved through the Public Works Committee. Republicans charged the White House used force to get it through a reluctant committee.

Rep. H. Allen Smith, R-Calif., who said he had read reports that the President "wanted the bill for Lady Bird," asked Rep. Ed Edmondson, D-Okla., what was the big hurry to get the bill through this late in the session.

"There is a feeling we have delayed too long," said Edmondson.

"Who has that feeling?" asked Smith.

"Well," replied Edmondson, "back in 1957 President Eisenhower's secretary of commerce, Sinclair Weeks, said we had waited too long."

"And has Mrs. Weeks now said we should pass this bill this session?" persisted Smith.

"People who are in his same capacity say it is urgent," said Edmondson.

Reps. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., James J. Delaney, D-N.Y., and Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., all of whose votes will be needed to clear the bill for floor action in the closely divided Rules Committee, showed no sympathy for it.

UC, Miami U. Support Plan For More 2-Year Colleges

CINCINNATI (AP) — Southwestern Ohio's two largest universities—Miami and Cincinnati—are backing the State Board of Regents' plan to open more two-year colleges in Ohio.

The Ohio Education Association also said here Wednesday the state needs more of the university branches and community colleges, but its president-elect, Paul C. Hayes, said he felt the proposals in the Regents' master plan are not enough.

"The master plan does not move fast enough or far enough to build, equip and staff the kinds of colleges our high school graduates have needed for the past decade," Hayes said.

Two-year colleges were but one of the topics discussed as the Regents held their fourth hearing on the proposed master plan. Other topics included finances, graduate study, and a proposal to set up a committee on engineering education.

In discussing the technical education field, both UC President Walter C. Langsam and W. W. Culp, president of the Ohio College of Applied Sciences, told the Regents they did not think Greater Cincinnati needs any state-supported technical education programs.

The proposal for a committee on engineering education came from Cornelius Wandmacher, dean of the UC College of Engineering.

Dean Wandmacher said Ohio has plenty of engineering schools—12 of them—but that there is need for an agency to coordinate the various programs and set up a program whereby professional engineers can be kept up to date with new developments.

The Regents also heard a proposal to consider the possibility of making tuition grants to students in private or church-supported colleges. The proposal came from Paul Mecklenborg of Cincinnati, chairman of the Ohio Citizens for Educational Freedom, one of the major forces behind the state "fair bus bill."

Policeman Richard Koffel found the back door of Haught's Tavern open and after investigating discovered the front door had been unbolted from the inside. Burglars netted about $2 from a juke box and a coin-operated machine but, in their haste, overlooked money in the cash register.

Late President's Son A Rarity

Roosevelt Quits Congress To Take U.N. Post Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Roosevelt, who resigns from Congress today to take a new job at the United Nations, is a rarity, a president's son who still makes news 20 years after his family left the White House.

In fact, this is true of most of the five children of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Jimmy — as everybody calls him — has been a California congressman for more than a decade.

Elliott Roosevelt, who won an upset victory last June to become mayor of Miami Beach, Fla., after only two years as a resident, is rumored a possible candidate for governor or senator.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who looks and sounds a good bit like the late president, resigned last May as undersecretary of commerce to become chairman of the new Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

In July, Frank, as he likes to be called, ended speculation he might run for mayor of New York, but left the door open for a bid next year for the governor's mansion.

The other two Roosevelts, John, the youngest, and Anna, the only daughter, have been out of the public spotlight in recent years.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt was nominated for the first of his four terms as President in July 1932, Anna was 26, James 24, Elliott 21, Franklin Jr. 17 and John 16.

Intruder Obtains $70 From W. 4th St. Club

Police continued a search today for an intruder who obtained approximately $70 in currency and change in a burglary Wednesday at the Cooties Club on W. 4th St.

Donald Abbott of Walnut St., an officer of the club, told police the burglar took the money from a hidden box. In addition, the intruder forced the lock on a coin-operated music machine owned by Hune, Inc., of W. 8th St. and took an undetermined amount in change, he said.

Entry was gained sometime between 1:30 and 9:30 a.m. yesterday by forcing a door on the southeast side of the building.

Stark Deputies Probe Mysterious Bombing

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Stark County deputies today were investigating the mysterious bombing in front of the home of a Canton auto dealer.

The bomb, which deputies believe was dynamite, exploded Wednesday night outside the suburban Avondale home of John P. Edwards, president of Edwards Motors Sales. His wife and four children, aged six to 14, were in the house. No one was injured.

The explosion tore a hole two-feet deep in the front yard and shattered a dining room window.

Judge Orders Fine, Jail In Traffic Action

LISBON — A Wellsville priest, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol Aug. 30, has been fined $150 and sentenced to three days in the County Jail.

The defendant, the Rev. Gerald X. Curran of 1021 Riverside Ave., was found guilty Wednesday afternoon on the charge by Judge J. L. MacDonald in Southwest Area County Court.

Judge MacDonald said he would not suspend the sentence, but deferred its execution "to a future time" when the defendant would be free of his obligations and commitments. The judge explained he rarely defers sentencing in such cases, but did so this time in the "interest of the people who would be affected and not for consideration for the defendant."

Fr. Curran, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church in Wellsville, entered a plea of not guilty at a preliminary hearing Sept. 3. At Wednesday's hearing, his counsel withdrew the plea of not guilty and entered a plea of no contest.

At the hearing, Judge MacDonald noted that a blood test indicated 22-100 of 1 per cent alcohol in the defendant's blood shortly after arrest, an amount well above the 15-100 of 1 per cent set by pathologists as a minimum in such cases.

Hospital Guild Organization Set

An organizational meeting of the Osteopathic Hospital Guild was held Tuesday afternoon at the hospital, with plans made for the local guild to become an affiliate of the national group.

Mrs. George S. Cozma of Cleveland, past adviser to the National Osteopathic Guild Association, was the speaker. She has assisted with the organization of hospital guilds in Michigan, Indiana, Oklahoma and Ohio.

Bylaws were adopted. They establish active and associate membership and provide for committees to maintain a hospitality cart for the convenience of patients, take care of sewing and mending of hospital linens and work on the special projects of the hospital.

Wall To Be Between Glenn And Cosmonaut

BERLIN (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth, and Russian cosmonaut Alexei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, will be in Berlin over the weekend but on opposite sides of the Communist wall dividing the city.

Glenn, on a goodwill tour, is to arrive in West Berlin Sunday. Leonov and his companion in Voskhod 2, Pavel Belyayev, are to attend a rally in East Berlin Saturday.

A U.S. mission spokesman said Glenn's coming to Berlin on the same weekend as the Russians was coincidence.

Wednesday night at Munich's Oktoberfest, Glenn's appearance in a beer tent caused such an uproar he had to be escorted to the safety of a police station. When he walked in, the crowd of 7,000 began a chant of "Glenn, Glenn."

Committee Posts Filled At Session Of Choir Parents

Standing committee chairmen were named at the first meeting of the new term of the East Liverpool Choir Parents Tuesday night at Memorial Auditorium.

William Savage, president, appointed William Cunningham, basketball programs; Mrs. Robert Duffy, membership, and Mrs. William MacBurney and Mrs. Helen Bradfield, social.

New officers introduced were Cunningham, vice president; Robert Kidd, treasurer and Mrs. John Hopper, secretary.

The aims and purpose of the organization were reviewed by Savage.

Robert Shankovich, choir director, discussed future plans.

The program included selections by "The Melodettes," a group of concert choir members — Cindy Butler, Barbara Rohrer, Jackie Hopper, Nila Bertschy, Jo Ann Chadwick, Martha Stacey, Sherry Johnston, Mary Compa, Cathy McKinnon, Sue Conley, Gay Bourne and Glenda Littell.

A piano duet, "Exodus," was offered by Mary Cartwright and Cathy Stover.

Refreshments were served by the social committee at a buffet table covered with a white linen cloth and centered with fall flowers.

Fence Damaged By Turning Auto

A householder's fence was damaged by a turning auto in a mishap Wednesday afternoon at West Alley and Drury Ln., police reported.

An aluminum picket and a corner post were damaged on the property of Warren Jones, 414 West Alley, when the fence was bumped by a 1956 four-door sedan operated by Carlisle D. Mackall, 78, of rear 420 W. 5th St., officers said. The car was undamaged.

Mackall said as he made the turn he felt his tire strike a stone at the corner of the fence. But he said he did not know his car had struck the fence.

Manwhile, Lester N. Brown of Laurel Heights, Chester, told officers the left rear bumper of his parked 1965 model car was scratched when struck by a hit-skip vehicle Wednesday at 4:24 p. m. on W. 4th St. near Jefferson St. Brown told officers he returned from a W. 4th St. store and a witness told him his auto was struck by a late model station wagon which did not stop.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I have something to say to the great American public and I know of no better way to reach them than through your column.

I work in a large drugstore as a photo finisher for color snapshots. Every day I see thousands of pictures. I'm one of four finishers so you can multiply my story by four, and keep in mind, ours is only one drug store and there are thousands in the country.

It is shocking how many people take pictures of half-dressed and undressed people and gag shots which are in shocking taste. Some of the stuff is downright pornographic.

Well-known people in this town keep bringing in film which would shock a mule skinner. I realize, Ann, that a person has to be a little sick to take these pictures in the first place, but if they knew how many pairs of eyes saw them before they left the drug store they'd be a whole lot sicker.—YOUR FRIENDLY FINISHER.

-:-

Dear Friendly: Your letter should be a flag to these sick exhibitionists. A not-so-friendly finisher could finish a few careers if he felt so inclined.

Dear Ann: My husband and I are torn between his loyalty to his parents and an opportunity to advance in his firm. We don't promise to take your advice but we'd like to hear what you have to say.

John and I have been married six years. We have three children. John's parents live two blocks from us. They are good people, not the interfering type, and we all get along fine.

The problem is they have few friends and no interests other than our family. Their lives are centered around us and our children.

John's company wants to send him to another state as a district manager. It would mean an impressive promotion and a substantial salary increase. My father-in-law says if John will pass it up and remain here he will make up the financial difference. He says money isn't everything and their lives will be empty without us.

Comment please.—TORN.

-:-

Dear Torn: True. Money isn't everything—but there's more involved here than money. Like independence. It is unfair of John's parents to try to keep him from advancing because they want him in town.

I believe he should accept the promotion. His parents can come to visit you.

All-Around Expert

Dear Ann: My mother has a friend who has had two years of psychology. She thinks this makes her an authority on everything.

This friend has turned my mother against several of my boy friends because, according to her, "You can tell all about a person by studying his face."

Tom was sneaky, she said, because his eyes were close together. Harold never would make a good living, because he had a receding chin which was a sign of weakness.

Bill's forehead was low, which meant he was not intelligent.

Bill was mean and stingy. She could tell this from his thin lips.

Chuck, she insisted, came from peasant stock because his neck was thick and his hands were large.

Ben, she warned me, had murder in his heart, as evidenced by his stubby thumbs.

Is there anything to this? Please say yes or no. Thank you.—MERCEDES.

-:-

Dear Mercedes: NO. And you're welcome.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Steubenville College Enrollment Hits High

STEUBENVILLE — Total enrollment of The College of Steubenville for 1965-66 is 1,085 — the first time the thousand mark has been eclipsed in the institution's history. Last fall's registration was 977.

Full-time enrollment reached 868 this fall, also a new record, according to Miss Audrey Savastone, registrar. Last year's full-time total was 770.

Dormitories are filled to overflowing. There are 310 men residing on the campus and 284 women. Some late registrants are living three-to-a-room, since the capacity of Trinity Hall and Marian Hall, women's dormitory, is only 274, while the men's dormitories, St. Francis Hall and Thomas More Hall, will house only 294.

Annual Reminder Set On Christmas Mailing

With fall here, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown offers his yearly reminder that now is the time to start planning for Christmas, particularly if you plan to send gift packages to military personnel or civilians outside the United States who receive their mail through an Army, Fleet or Navy post office.

The period from Oct. 21 to Nov. 10 has been designated for mailing parcels by surface transportation (boat) with a reasonable expectation of delivery prior to Christmas. For airmail packages, the period runs from Dec. 1-10. Greeting cards should be mailed during the same time periods.

The term "armed forces overseas" includes military personnel, members of their families and authorized civilians employed overseas, the postmaster said.

Because some Army post offices now require customs declaration forms to be completed, Brown advised a check at the post office stamp window to determine those that do and also to learn what items cannot be sent overseas, such as matches and lighter fluid.

All APO numbers have been changed to five digits which are identical with the Zip Code, he added.

The postmaster also reminded that items should be well packed in wood, metal, solid fiberboard or doublefaced corrugated fiberboard boxes.

Addresses must be legible and complete and written by typewriter or in pen and ink. He suggested a slip of paper with the addressee's name and address and the return address be enclosed inside the package in case the outer covering is damaged.

Akron Man Sets Auto Speed Mark

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Art Arfons has another record and racing activity here halted for several days today.

Arfons, of Akron, Ohio, opened up his jet-powered Green Monster Wednesday, setting a record of 258.62 miles per hour for the quarter mile in 6.9 seconds.

The old mark of 210.80 m.p.h. was set by Tom McEwen of Los Angeles in a piston-engine car.

With Arfons' run, racing activity here in western Utah slackened until Sunday when Craig Breedlove of Los Angeles starts test runs of his new racer, Spirit of America-Sonic I.

The car, powered by a J-79 turbojet engine, was unveiled to the press in Los Angeles Wednesday.

Breedlove's goal is to break Arfons' world land speed record of 536.71 m.p.h. set here last October.

Report Backs Pennsylvania Milk Controls

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Members of the Pennsylvania General Assembly today were studying a report from its 12-member committee investigating milk marketing which recommends strengthening of milk price controls, including products shipped from Ohio, New York and other states.

A bare majority of seven signed the report. The other five, all from Western Pennsylvania, indicated they plan to file a strong minority report.

Eight bills to implement the proposed changes in the milk marketing legislation were introduced in the House.

The majority report is in opposition to a recommendation made earlier this year by Gov. William Scranton that milk controls be liberalized and that some experimental lifting of price controls be authorized.

Consumers and farmers in many parts of Western Pennsylvania have rapped the present Milk Commission setup, charging it favors producers.

Hancock Action Group To Add New Directors

Authority to increase the number of directors of the Hancock County Community Action Council, Inc., was approved during a membership meeting Wednesday night at the Courthouse in New Cumberland.

An amendment increased the board from 21 to 27 to include representatives of organized labor and low-income families after representatives of the Office of Economic Opportunity informed the council at an earlier meeting that additional representation was needed to obtain federal approval.

Ralph Burkey, president of the Independent Steelworkers Union at Weirton Steel Co., was named as labor's representative and five persons were selected to represent families with less than $3,000 yearly income.

After the organization receives federal approval, a staff will be employed, with the administrator getting $9,000 yearly, an assistant drawing $7,200 and a secretary $4,600.

Under the federal program, available funds are for program personnel only and not for facilities.

The only application made to the council so far has been submitted by Opportunities Center, Inc., of Weirton to establish a workshop for mentally-retarded children and for adults and children who have severe physical handicaps.

A proposal by Charles Leveridge, a Weirton teacher, that board meetings be confined only to directors was rejected. Leonard Salerno, chairman, said the meetings should be open to the public, since they concern the public.

The next meeting will be Oct. 20 at the County Extension Office in New Cumberland.

Michael Gatrell of Alton St. is due for a Municipal Court hearing Monday at 9 a. m. on a charge he ignored six tickets issued for parking violations.

DETERGENTS AND GERMICIDAL ACTION

Q. Do ordinary detergents used in laundering have any germ-killing properties?

A. A complete laudering procedure, in which only a detergent is used, removes up to 99 per cent of germs on the fabric. The effectiveness of detergents in eliminating bacteria is almost 100 per cent if adequate time (more than 10 minutes) for the wash cycle is allowed and if the temperature of the wash water is 145 to 160°F.

ACTIVATED CHARCOAL

Q. What is the difference between ordinary charcoal and activated charcoal?

A. The difference is in the nature of the surface of the two types of charcoal. Ordinary charcoal (bone black, carbon black, etc.) has a surface area of 5 to 50 square meters per gram and is generally nonporous. Activated charcoal is obtained by special processes from soft coal, bone, wood, etc. It has very large surface areas (up to 1000 square meters per gram) and is porous, characteristics which create great capacity for strongly binding many substances to its surface. Thus activated charcoal can deodorize, decolorize, etc., whereas ordinary charcoal can not.

Grand Jury Files Eight Proposals

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP)—The Lorain County Grand Jury has ended its eight-day investigation of the Lorain City Civil Service Commission by making eight recommendations. No charges were made.

The grand jury said Wednesday that the conduct of the commission did not protect the interest of the public and those taking civil service tests. The jury investigated the promotional examinations in the Lorain Police Department chief, lieutenant and sergeant last December.

The grand jury recommended: Having testing and grading open to the public; opening tests and answer sheets only in the presence of those taking tests; not allowing commission members to have access to the test questions prior to examination; grading the examinations in the presence of those tested; not repeating examinations, and all papers and grades should be open to the public.

Prosecutor Paul J. Mikus called the grand jury after charges were made that results of the examinations were forecast before the examinations were given.

Do Or Die For Emmy Awards

Richard Doan

Rod Serling, the tight-lipped, 5 - foot - 5 playwright who has spellbound millions of TV viewers with his offbeat dramas for "Twilight Zone" and other series, is no prophet with honor at home — for the moment, at least.

The author of CBS' new Western "The Loner," starring Lloyd Bridges, Serling also is president of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences and as such he is the storm center of a controversy over his open criticism of this month's Emmy awards telecast on NBC.

EVIDENTLY many of the academy's 6,000 members — all TV professionals working both in front of and behind the cameras — privately agreed with Serling that the Sept. 12 telecast amounted to "two deadly dull hours," as he described it, but they thought he shouldn't have said so in public.

In New York to thresh over the whole Emmy uproar by the board of trustees of the academy, Serling apologized to a membership meeting of the New York chapter, saying he was "deeply sorry" if he hurt the awards with his candid remarks to the press after the telecast.

He added he still felt the affair "did no credit to our industry or our academy."

-:-

SERLING had presided over a revamping of the Emmies after two of the national TV networks, ABC and CBS, bolted the academy last year, criticizing the awards as invalid.

An awards committee headed by Betty Furness, the one-time TV salesgirl, came up with a plan abolishing illogical award categories, such as had pitted Dick Van Dyke against George C. Scott for "best actor" last year.

Also, to wipe out alleged "block voting" by network-employed members, selection of Emmy winners was put in the hands of "blue ribbon" panels of judges.

The result was that Emmies were conferred on a basis of excellence, but an aura of competition for the awards was lost.

-:-

THE DILEMMA now faced by the academy is that it must present an entertaining show and at the same time find some way to make the awards more meaningful to the general public.

The very existence of the academy is largely dependent on the TV "rights" to the awards telecast.

It was evident from a show of hands by a couple of hundred members attending the New York chapter meeting that a majority did not want to see the old category system restored.

At the same time Serling pointed out that no one had found a solution to the problem of how to remove the tedium of taking up long stretches of air time with awards to deserving technical and other production people whose identities and accomplishments mean nothing to the average viewer.

-:-

HANDING THEM their Emmies off camera would be a "slap in the face," Serling felt.

One thing is certain, said Royal Blakeman, a business agent for TV stars and member of the academy board, "the next telecast (of Emmy awards) must be by far the best we've ever done."

In short, it's probably do-or-die for Emmy in 1966.

-:-

NBC obviously can take the gaff.

The network has announced the signing of comedian Don Rickles to an exclusive contract. He will be starred in the pilot for a proposed weekly series called "Stone Walls Do Not," in which he'll portray the ringleader of a bunch of jailbirds who just love their prison life.

It sounds, of course, very much like Sgt. Bilko gone to jail.

Rickles last week unburdened himself of some cutting opinions of NBC's Sept. 12 telecast of the Emmy awards.

In a bylined commentary for a West Coast trade paper, the comedian berated the program as having "all the excitement of Election Day in Jackson, Miss."

-:-

CBS quietly has turned down a New York police series submitted by Hub Robinson, once the network's head programmer.

Meanwhile, CBS is said to be looking at a proposed series to be built around the character of Tiger Man, hero of three Mickey Spillane novels.

Actor To Seek Seat In California House

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Gary Merrill said today he'll run next year for the State House of Representatives, and eventually for governor, in Maine.

"I'm not a dedicated actor; I've always been interested in politics and other things," said Merrill between takes on a Bob Hope television show.

"I've moved back to Portland. I've had New York and I don't like it here.

"Maine is my state. When I was married to Bette Davis, we lived there and I went to college there (Bowdoin).

"I think it's the best state in the Union. I just want to devote my political life to make it better."

Merrill, 48, will run as a Democrat in the traditionally Republican state.

3 Quakes In Month Have Jarred Denver

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Three earthquakes in less than a month have jolted the Denver area.

The latest Wednesday brought scattered reports of cracked plaster, broken dishes and broken windows. It was felt in Boulder 30 miles to the northwest.

Seismographs measured the tremor at 4.5 on the Richter scale, matching the intensity of quakes Sept. 13 and 14. Seismologists say a tremor of 6.0 would bring serious damage.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Good Student Has Trouble At Home

Dr. Garry Myers

Suppose you were the teenage daughter described in the following letter from a mother in Ohio. Suppose you were her parents.

"Our daughter, 15, is, with very little effort, a straight-A student in the ninth grade. She loves Latin and algebra (including enclosed sample alphamatic puzzle which she often does daily before changing school clothes).

"If I remind her to pick up the pile of papers, books, etc., which are perpetually on her desk or the heaps of clothes on her chair or bed, she responds in a resigned voice, 'Yes, yes, Mother. Nag, nag. Do this. Do that, is all I ever hear.' I have tried not to 'straighten up' her things, although the continual mess does bother both her father and me.

"If she is not reminded of bedtime (10 p.m. school nights), she just doesn't get to bed till eleven, or after, and she again complains of nagging when her father and/or I do remind her that it is ten o'clock, and time for bed.

"I BELIEVE the reason for our 'nagging' is that we don't know how firm a stand to take on the importance of establishing a minimum of basic responsibility in routines important to living cooperatively.

"She would rather read (current periodicals — Readers' Digest, book condensations, etc.) than exercise outdoors or help in any way around the house. We have tried to praise her when she does do some of these routine necessities, but she seems to live in 'another world' in which these are of no interest whatsoever.

"We do lose our tempers and scold too loudly occasionally and perhaps I am 'secretly sympathetic' (?) because I prefer my part - time graduate studies to continuous housework!

"I'm sure she's somewhat jealous of her slower sister, 11½, who does delight in 'being helpful' — just to 'show her sister up.' Our son, 9, said recently, 'Jane doesn't want to be a part of the family.'

"Truthfully, I am concerned that these problems will affect her feelings of positive self-worth."

—:—

MY REPLY in part:

I hope you show appreciation of your daughter's interest in puzzle - solving and her achievements at school.

She's pretty old for you to get very far by force in matters of responsibility. I think you and Dad ought to figure out what you can enforce other than by jawing. Just decide you're going to quit talking. If you can't find a way to get results, accept the problem and don't get mad about it.

In respect to her untidy room, why not tell her that you will inspect it every so often — say, once or twice a week — and what you will expect to find at that time and the penalty if it's not in order. A penalty might be denial of certain privileges she greatly enjoys that you can enforce.

I know just how much you are annoyed by her untidiness and irresponsibility. However, you don't name anything that is a very serious matter as I can see. Maybe you make too much of it.

I just hope you and Dad try to enjoy your daughter when all is well. Perhaps the biggest problem is that the younger brother and sister win so much approval, causing this older one to wish to be different from them.

My bulletins, "Preventing and Reducing Jealousy" and "Educating Your Child in Responsibility," may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Living Costs Showed Biggest Drop In 3 Years In August

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drop in food prices cut living costs two-tenths of one per cent in August — the biggest decline in nearly three years, the Labor Department said.

Housing and transportation costs also showed slight declines, but clothing and medical care went up.

The two-tenths of one per cent drop in the government's consumer price index brought it down to 110.0 per cent of its 1957-59 average.

This means that typical family consumer items that cost $10 in 1957-59 cost $11 last August.

The drop in living costs was the first downward move since August of last year.

In August of 1964 the index was 108.2. Thus the index rise for the 12 months was 1.8 points.

The last decline in the index as large as two-tenths of one per cent was in December of 1962.

Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the approximately one per cent drop in food prices last month was a decline from unusually high prices over the summer.

He said food prices had averaged an increase of one percent a year over the previous five years, but jumped 3 per cent from May through July of this year.

Chase repeated frequent Labor Department denials that a new policy barring most foreign farm laborers from this country for temporary harvest work had anything to do with the food price increase over the summer.

In addition to food, used car prices showed a decline unusual for August.

This drop and a decline for gasoline contributed to a decline of five-tenths of one per cent in transportation costs. Housing costs edged down one-tenth of one per cent largely because of rebates in telephone bills in some states.

Medical care costs, the highest and fastest raising item in the index, continued up, but the increase of one-tenth of one per cent was one of the smallest monthly increases on record.

Despite the drop in August prices, some 60,000 workers with labor contracts pegged to the index will receive wage increases based on the quarterly increase in the index.

Dorothy Malone Seen Making Fine Progress

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Dorothy Malone was speaking easily and making excellent progress toward recovery—but remained on the critical list — Cedars of Lebanon Hospital spokesmen said today.

A medical bulletin Wednesday said the Academy Award-winning actress was starting to eat solid food and that her temperature was back to normal after massive doses of antibiotics were administered.

The 40-year-old actress underwent surgery last Thursday for removal of blood clots from her lungs.

It Wasn't Pet Skunk So He Misses Dance

LINDSBORG, Kan. (AP) — Mike Chambers' pet deodorized skunk ran away.

Mike's 14-year-old cousin, Larry Webster, was on his way to a school dance when he was sure he saw Mike's pet. He pursued the fleeing skunk and threw his coat over it.

Larry didn't go to the dance. It wasn't Mike's skunk.

Ashbrook, of Johnstown, Ohio, said Wednesday he would make his request to the House Committee on un-American Activities subcommittee, which opens public hearings on the Klan next month.

"The pattern of the Klan has been held over the past six weeks," Ashbrook said. "It is imperative that we find out if the Ohio Klan plans the same type of terroristic actions."

Koufax Hurls Dodgers 2 In Front As Cards Whip Giants

The Review Sports

Marichal To Try Checking Slump

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Herman Franks finally faced reality today.

The frustrated San Francisco manager, unable to check his team's shocking collapse that threatens to slide it right out of the National League pennant race, summed up the Giants' plight in three plaintive words:

"We need help."

Never have the beleagured Giants needed help more. Never this year have they helped themselves less.

They've lost six of their last eight to drop six games to the furious-finishing Los Angeles Dodgers whom they led by four games just nine days ago.

This afternoon, as Juan Marichal attempts to plug the dike, the Giants find themselves two games in back of the front-running Dodgers with just four left to play—all at home with the third-place Cincinnati Reds.

The Dodgers, who have won their last 12 games, also have four to play against the Milwaukee Braves at Dodger Stadium.

It was the Reds who started the Giants on the downhill road, a skid that continued unabated Wednesday when the St. Louis Cardinals staved off a last-inning uprising to hand them an 8-6 defeat.

Held to two hits by right-hander Bob Gibson and trailing 8-0, the Giants suddenly came to life and almost pulled off a miracle.

Unable to advance a runner past second base through eight innings against the hard-throwing Gibson, the Giants bombed the right-hander off the mound in the ninth and continued their assault against southpaw Curt Simmons.

There were six runs in, Jesus Alou on first base and Willie Mays, representing the tying run with two outs, at bat when St. Louis manager Red Schoendienst summoned Harold Woodeshick, a left-hander, from the bullpen.

Woodeshick, with orders not to give Mays anything good to hit, fed Willie nothing but fast balls close in on the fists. Mays managed to hit one off third baseman Ken Boyer's glove for a single.

Now Willie McCovey, the Giant left-handed slugging first baseman with 39 home runs to his credit, came to the plate representing the ninth and winning run. McCovey, after slashing a long foul, worked the count to 3-2, then brought a groan to the 10,345 Candlestick Park patrons by fanning on a curve that swept a foot outside the plate.

The miracle didn't quite come off and there are those who think it will take a miracle for the Giants to overhaul the Dodgers.

The Giants aren't dead yet. But the end seems near. They managed only nine hits, marking the 11th time in the last 13 games that they failed to crack double figures.

Franks was forced to use three pitchers, making it a total of 30 in the last eight games. No starting pitcher has gone the route since Bob Bolin beat Houston Sept. 16.

Bob Shaw, a 16-game winner, started for the Giants and was blasted out in the eighth when the Cards scored five times to boost their margin to 8-0.

"I'm not going to find fault with my pitchers at this late stage," said Franks. "Maybe they haven't been going so well lately, but they've been good all year. I've got no complaints.

"We're not through yet. Not by a long shot. This rally today might have given us the shot in the arm we have been looking for. It wouldn't surprise me if we came on like gangbusters now."

McDowell Raises Strikeout Total

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Quickie Quiz: What pitcher is striking out batters at a faster clip than Sandy Koufax?

Stumped?

None other than Cleveland's Sam McDowell, whose individual performances have been overshadowed in recent weeks by the developments of the American League pennant race and without fanfare has joined Koufax as a member of the exclusive 300-strikeout club.

McDowell, a 23-year-old left-hander in only his second full major league season, raised his strikeout total to 318 Wednesday night by fanning 12 in a five-hit, 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

McDowell, who has a 17-10 record with a best-in-the-league 2.17 earned-run average, has struck out 10 or more batters in 17 games this season, while becoming only the fifth pitcher in major league history to hit the 300-strikeout plateau.

Only Koufax in the NL and Rube Waddell, Walter Johnson and Bob Feller in the AL have reached that level.

In addition McDowell is fanning batters faster than Koufax despite the fact that the 29-year-old Dodger left-hander has struck out a major league record 369. Koufax, who has worked 326 2-3 innings, has a 1.1 strikeout-per-inning rate to 1.2 for McDowell, who has pitched only 265 innings.

While McDowell was adding to his laurels, the champion Minnesota Twins ended Baltimore's nine-game winning streak by edging the Orioles 3-2, Washington's Jim Hannan five-hit Kansas City 9-0 and Boston edged California 2-1. Chicago and Detroit were idle.

Fred Whitfield and Max Alvis supplied the only support McDowell needed. Whitfield hit a three-run homer in a four-run third inning while Alvis, who went 4-for-4, singled home the other run in the uprising and then hit a homer in the eighth inning. Clete Boyer and Elston Howard homered for the Yankees.

Jim Grant, the lone 20-game winner in the AL, gained his 21st victory against six losses when Bob Allison won it for the Twins with a two-run homer in the eighth inning off Steve Barber. Allison connected with Cesar Tovar on base with a double. Allison also tripled and scored the first run on Andy Kosco's fourth-inning single.

Cancer Claims Gridder Desiring To Play Again

CHURCH HILL, Tenn. (AP) — Mike Johnson, who had hopes of recovering from cancer "maybe in time for spring practice" with the University of South Carolina football squad, died here Wednesday night.

He was stricken and died as he and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Johnson, watched Mike's younger brother play in an elementary school football game.

Johnson, a 6-foot-4, 228-pounder when a star sophomore center at South Carolina last year, had lost a tremendous amount of weight and was barely able to talk.

But the courageous redhead still had hopes of rejoining his teammates, "maybe in time for spring practice."

Three of Mike's teammates visited here two weeks ago to present the athlete with the ball the Gamecocks used in a 14-3 comeback victory over The Citadel.

The South Carolina club rallied for two touchdowns in the second half to overcome a 3-0 Citadel lead after Coach Marvin Bass told them to "go out there and get that game for Mike Johnson."

At the time of the visit his mother said Mike was "so thrilled, almost beyond words." She said he received a deluge of mail from "everyone down in South Carolina. He keeps saying he'll go back to school next spring. ."

Johnson is survived by the parents, two brothers and a sister. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Pont Respects Potters Air Game; Central Has Lost To Strong Foes

The days of Buster Yannon are gone and Steubenville Central is in the process of rebuilding its forces as Coach Rich Pont prepares his charges for Saturday night's battle with East Liverpool at Patterson Field.

Last season, Yannon, back of the year, scored four touchdowns as Central ran over the Potters, 44-18, after East Liverpool had taken a 14-0 lead. He is now a freshman at the University of Nebraska.

PONT immediately recalled that 14-0 deficit. "East Liverpool had us down by two touchdowns and I don't want that to happen this year, we do not have the kind of team that can score a lot," Pont said.

Looking over the Potters, Pont said "East Liverpool has a fine passing attack typical of McNea coached teams. They have a fine quarterback in Winters and the team has impressed me. They can explode at anytime and the rain last Friday hurt their passing attack against Oak Glen."

—:—

THE CRUSADERS will bring a 1-2 record to East Liverpool. Both losses have been to strong teams. Central lost 19-6 to a powerful Columbus East team then fell 34-6 last week to Pittsburgh Westinghouse which has captured the Pittsburgh City title 16 of the last 19 years.

Steubenville's lone victory was an 18-0 decision over a big Bellaire St. John's eleven.

ONLY ONE regular from the 1964 squad will be in the starting offensive lineup for the Crusaders Saturday night. He is Dave Urdzik, a 210 pound tackle. His brother Bob Urdzik, a 210-pound sophomore will handle the other tackle spot.

Four other members of the current Central eleven won letters last season but did not see too much action.

One member of this quartet is Bob Falbo, a 190 pound senior, who is considered the chief offensive threat for the Crusaders but Pont reported Falbo was battling the flu earlier in the week.

—:—

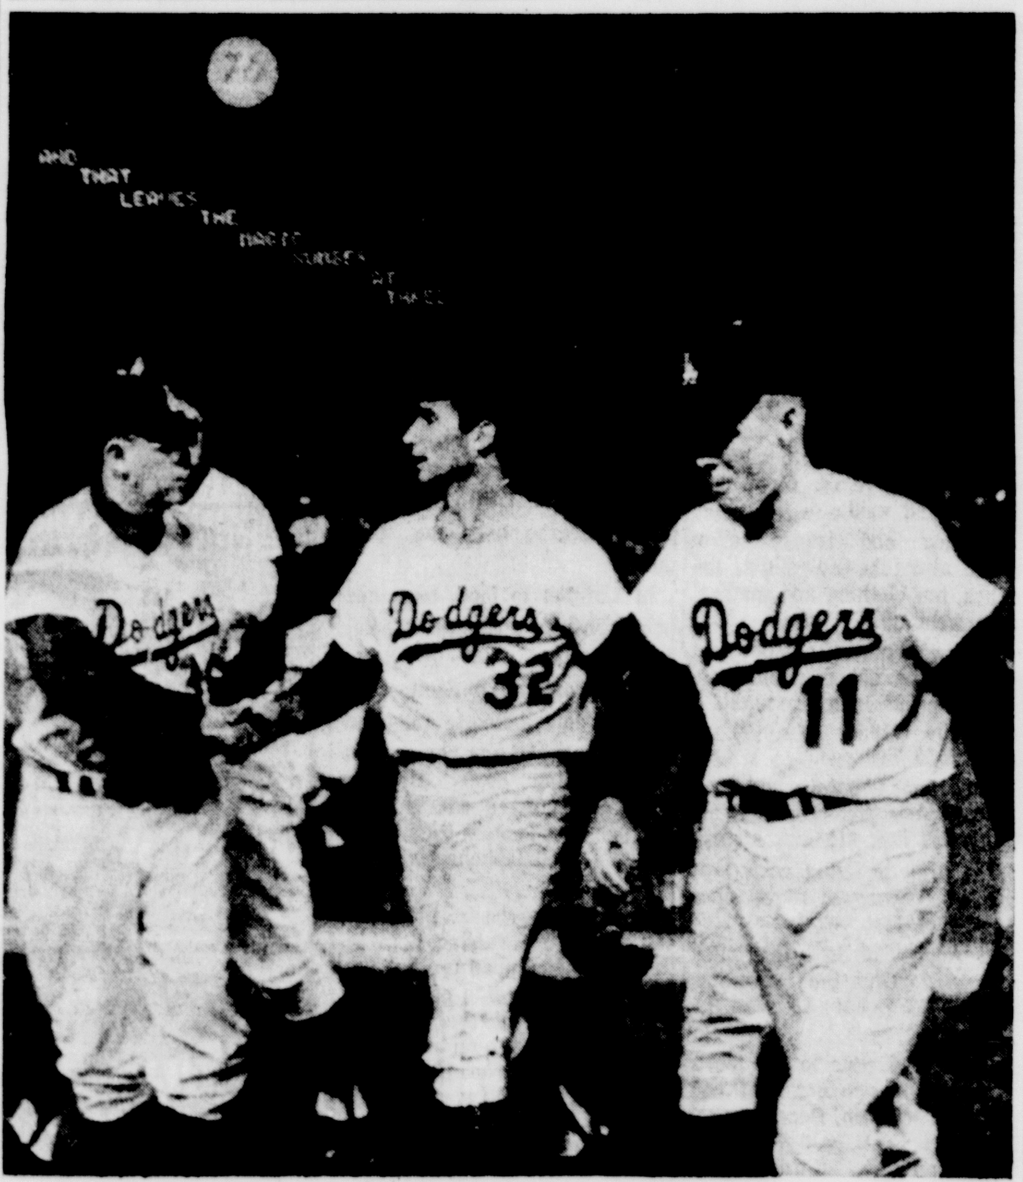
THE STARTING quarterback for Central is Ed Narewski, 160-pound junior, who lettered last season as a defensive halfback. Narewski has shown sharp improvement and along with Falbo carry the offensive thrust of the Crusaders.

Ed Kliner, a 153-pounder, lettered and will be used as a defensive halfback while the other numeral winner is Joe Abramowicz (157) scheduled for an end spot.

—:—

THE REMAINDER of the backfield lists Eugene Zrinyi (160) at fullback and Bill Morris, 170-pound junior at halfback.

Rounding out the forward wall will be Tom Cusick, (170) and Ed Laman (193) at guards with Mick Burzzese (182) at right end and Joe Topich (195) at center.



THE MESSAGE BOARD at Dodger Stadium in the background tells the story "and that leaves the magic number at three" as Dodger pitcher Sandy Koufax (center) walks off the field after scoring his 25th victory of the season Wednesday night in a 5-0 victory over the Reds. Koufax is greeted by coach Lefty Phillips (left) and flanked by third baseman John Kennedy. (UPI Telephoto)

Southpaw Allows Reds Only 2 Hits

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax has found something for the pitcher who has everything.

Koufax, whose dazzling curve ball and fast ball have brought him just about everything a pitcher could want, now has presented himself with a forkball.

Oak Glen-Follansbee Game Is Rescheduled

The Oak Glen - Follansbee football game originally scheduled Friday Oct. 8 at 8 p. m. has been rescheduled for Saturday, Oct. 9 at 2 p. m. Reserved seat tickets are on sale at Herche's in New Cumberland and Chester and at Carnahan's in Newell.

He displayed it more than ever Wednesday night, pitching a two-hitter and gaining his 25th triumph as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Cincinnati 5-0 for their 12th straight victory and increased their National League lead to two games over the staggering San Francisco Giants.

The Giants lost to St. Louis 8-6 Wednesday and now face a four-game, season-ending series with Cincinnati. The Dodgers play their last four games with Milwaukee, and if they win only two of them, the Giants would have to sweep all four of theirs to gain a tie.

"It's hard to tell one game of Sandy's from another, he's so consistent," Dodger Manager Walter Alston said after the game.

But there was one difference — the forkball. And Koufax was appropriately proud of it.

"I had a good curve, and my control was as good as it's been all year," the 29-year-old left-hander said. "Then I threw five or six forkballs — got 'em over, too."

Koufax has been experimenting with the pitch this season but had thrown it only once or twice in any game before Wednesday night.

It only foreshadowed worse things to come for Dodger opponents, who have stood by almost helplessly while Koufax has compiled a major league record of 369 strikeouts, eight shutouts and 26 complete games in 40 starts this season.

Koufax' 25 victories also equal his personal high achieved in 1963 when he won the Cy Young Award. He lost five that year compared with eight this season. He also reduced his earned run average to 2.06 as the Dodgers eliminated the third-place Reds from contention.

Koufax, who struck out 13, allowed only singles by Vada Pinson in the fourth and Deron Johnson in the seventh. The Dodgers' big blow, meanwhile, was Maury Wills' three-run triple in the seventh off Jim Maloney, now 20-0. Wills then scored as Jim Gilliam singled.

The Giants went down to their sixth defeat in the last eight games despite a six-run rally in the ninth. Bob Gibson, 19-12, held the Giants to two hits until that inning, but Curt Simmons and Hal Woodeshick had to come on before the Cardinals got out of it.

Jim Davenport hit a three-run homer in the rally, but that was nullified by Gibson's first major league grand slam in the eighth. Gibson also singled twice and scored the Cardinals' first two runs.

Basketball Proved First Love Of Twins' Manager

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (AP) — Basketball was Sam Mele's first love. Had World War II not interfered, he might have become a professional cager.

"I don't know if you could compare me with Bob Cousy," the manager of the American League pennant-winning Minnesota Twins said. "But I think I was pretty good."

Born Jan. 21, 1922, in the Astoria section of New York City, Mele excelled at both baseball and basketball as a youngster. But basketball was his No. 1 sport at New York University, which he attended for three years in the early 1940s.

The Boston Celtics drafted Mele No. 1 in 1943. Mele, however, joined the Marines.

He got out of the service in 1946, found his basketball play was rusty and signed a baseball contract with the Boston Red Sox.

"When I was young," Mele said, "I always wanted to be a basketball player. I went to NYU on a basketball scholarship.

"I tried it again after I got out of the service, but I was 24 then and I hadn't played much for a long time.

"I had agreed to go to spring training with the Red Sox in 1946, so that kind of knocked out the basketball."

Boston sent Mele to Louisville and Scranton in 1946, the last year the Red Sox won a pennant. He had trouble handling the pitching at Louisville, but hit .342 for Scranton in 119 games.

That earned him a shot with the Red Sox in 1947 in an outfield which included Ted Williams and Dom DiMaggio. Sam broke in with a bang, hitting .302 in 123 games and winning AL Rookie-of-the-Year honors.

He played 10 years in the major leagues as an outfielder with Boston, Washington, Chicago, Baltimore, Cincinnati and Cleveland, compiling a lifetime average of .267.

Mele finished his playing career at Buffalo in 1958 when he hit .216 in 58 games.

His playing days over, Mele became a scout for the old Washington Senators in 1959 and became a coach for the Senators the following year.

In 1961, he came to Minnesota with the Griffith organization as a coach under Manager Cookie Lavagetto.

When the 1961 Twins got off to a poor start, Calvin Griffith fired Lavagetto on June 23, and named Mele as his successor.

Hull Back In Hawks' Camp

CHICAGO (AP) — Hockey player Bob Hull has ended his boycott of the Chicago Black Hawks and returned to drills after a four-day dispute with the National Hockey League club.

Hull walked out on the team last Saturday with his paternal pride ruffled. He tested a club rule barring children from the Hawks' Chicago Stadium dressing room.

When admittance was refused Hull's sons, Blake, 5, and Bobby, 4, the superstar of the National Hockey League took them home and stayed there.

But the Golden Jet strolled into the Stadium Wednesday without the boys, had a 90-minute chat with General Manager Tommy Ivan, a 15-minute session with Coach Billy Reay, and then put on his skates and went to work.

The reaction to Hull's walkout by co-owner James D. Norris was the firing of a message from his Coral Gables, Fla., home that if Bobby didn't stop "acting like a spoiled kid" he would be liable to a $1,000-a-day fine.

"It was just a misunderstanding and there will be no disciplinary action taken," said Ivan.

Ivan and Hull said there was salary talk in their meeting and both added they were "a little ways" apart.

There was a rumble that Bobby wanted $100,000 — about a $70,000 raise — but Hull denied he ever had set such a figure.

NEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight champion Joey Giardello and challenger Dick Tiger of Nigeria interrupt their training to sign official contracts today for their 15-round title fight at Madison Square Garden Oct. 21.

Collier Hopes Ryan Will Be Ready To Go

CLEVELAND (AP) — Paul Warfield is eager and almost ready to get back into action for the Cleveland Browns. That's good.

Coach Blatnon Collier is looking grim these days as he juggles his lineup for Sunday's game against the Philadelphia Eagles. That's bad.

Warfield, Browns end, suffered a broken collarbone Aug. 6 against the College All-Stars. He had to have a pin inserted in his shoulder and it was removed Wednesday.

He wants to get into uniform, hopefully in three or four weeks. "Being so close to the action and not able to take part has been awfully tough," he said.

Meanwhile, Collier has made several alterations in the lineup. The big question remaining, however, is who will start at quarterback. Jim Ninowski worked out with the offensive unit Wednesday while Frank Ryan recovered from a bruised left foot suffered against the St. Louis Cardinals last Sunday.

Asked if Ryan will be ready, Collier replied "We think he'll be improved by game time. We believe he'll be able to play some. How much is the question."

Weiskopf Easy Winner In Ohio Open Tourney

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Experience and two fine rounds of 70 won the Ohio Open Golf Tournament Wednesday for long hitting Tom Weiskopf of Columbus.

Weiskopf, only 22 but with a year's pro tour experience under his belt, pocketed the $1,300 top prize money with a seven-under-par 281 after Wednesday's 36-hole finale of the tournament, held for the third straight year at Walnut Hill Country Club.

The victory was the first for Weiskopf since turning pro.

Tom Cassady of Circleville, who had led the tournament after Monday's first round and was tied with Weiskopf for the halfway lead, finished in a tie for third, at 291, when his putting turned sour and he shot 74-76 Wednesday.

Duff Lawrence, assistant pro at Columbus' Scioto Country Club, shot into second place with a 290 total after Wednesday cards of par 72 and 71. He collected $900.

Don Spears, Cuyahoga Falls, in a tie for fifth at 149 at the midway mark, equalled par in the morning and toured the course two - under - par in the afternoon for a 291 total and a tie with Cassady.

Spears, former pro at Walnut Hill, and Cassady collected $525 apiece.

Low amateur was 30-year-old Chuck Smith of Groveport, who finished at 294 after a morning 70 round and afternoon 74 card.

There had been some question Tuesday whether pros Wilbur Bradenburg of Columbus and Verl Stinchcomb of Portsmouth would count Wednesday's score to decide the Seniors Division (over 50) Championship, since they had tied after Tuesday's conclusion in that division, or share first prize.

The latter decision was made and each went away $125 richer Wednesday.

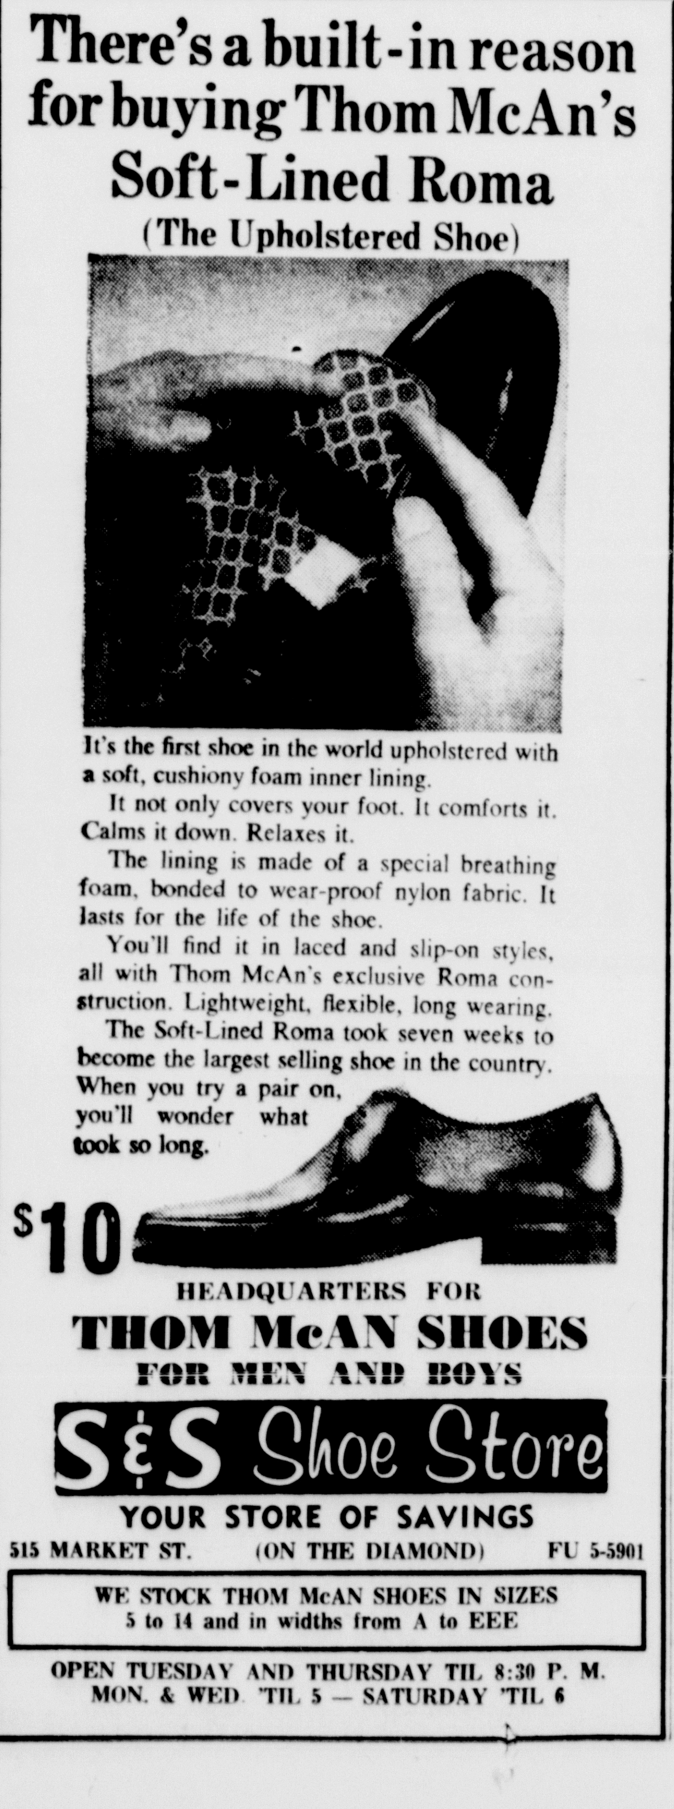
Youngstown U. Wins Against Libel Suit

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A Struthers resident has lost a libel suit in which he sought $225,000 from Youngstown University and the student publication, The Jambar, which he claimed printed unjust criticisms of him.

Mahoning County Common Pleas Judge Sieney Rigelhaupt noted Wednesday that the plaintiff, Paul Banoci, was an officer of the university Student Council when the criticisms appeared and, therefore, subject to fair criticism. The court ruled the statements were fair.



There's a built-in reason for buying Thom McAn's Soft-Lined Roma
(The Upholstered Shoe)

It's the first shoe in the world upholstered with a soft, cushiony foam inner lining.

It not only covers your foot. It comforts it. Calms it down. Relaxes it.

The lining is made of a special breathing foam, bonded to wear-proof nylon fabric. It lasts for the life of the shoe.

You'll find it in laced and slip-on styles, all with Thom McAn's exclusive Roma construction. Lightweight, flexible, long wearing.

The Soft-Lined Roma took seven weeks to become the largest selling shoe in the country. When you try a pair on, you'll wonder what took so long.

Kamp Picked Back Of Week Around AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — In the hoopla about Joe Namath's first start for the New York Jets last week, the performance of Buffalo's Jack Kemp, the winning quarterback, was overlooked in some quarters. Kemp only completed 22 of 37 passes for 292 yards and was picked by The Associated Press as the Offensive Player of the Week in the American Football League.

Kemp was knocked out, trying to dive for a touchdown on the third play of the fourth period when he banged head-on into four Jets. Daryle Lamonica took over for the rest of the game. Kemp had a great third period when he completed 13 of 16 for 135 yards.

Cookie Gilchrist, the bruising fullback who used to run behind the same big Buffalo line that sheltered Kemp, broke out of a slump and charged through the Boston Patriots for 142 yards on 32 carries in a Friday night game at Boston. Cookie also did some solid blocking and never was thrown for a loss.

NL Playoff Would Open At LA Field

LOS ANGELES (AP)—If the Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants finish in a tie for the National League pennant, the first game of the best-of-three series will be in Dodger Stadium with the second and third, if necessary, in Candlestick Park.

This playoff arrangement was decided Wednesday by a coin-tossing ceremony conducted here by National League President Warren C. Giles.

The series, if required, will begin Monday, and a game will be played each day. Following the playoff's conclusion, the National League winner will get a day of rest before opening the World Series in Minnesota against the American League champion Twins.

Presently, the Dodgers are two games ahead of the Giants, and both teams have four to play. Los Angeles opens a four-game series here tonight with Milwaukee, and San Francisco opens a four-game set at Candlestick Park with the Cincinnati Reds.

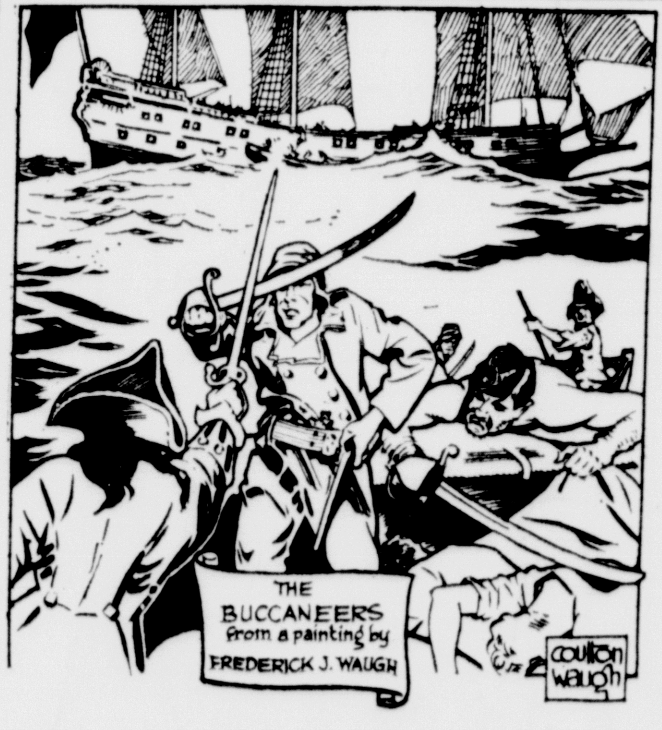
Junior Editors Quiz on BUCCANEERS



THE BUCCANEERS from a painting by FREDERICK J. WAUGH
coulton waugh

QUESTION: Why were some pirates called buccaneers?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: A pirate is a sea robber, condemned by all nations alike. The buccaneers were also fierce and cruel, but, at first, they fought for their nations, and so were not the same as pirates.

In the early 1600's, most colonists had left the West Indian island of Hispaniola because of the harsh rule of the Spaniards. There were cattle and pigs on the island; the few settlers developed a way of curing meat without salting, called "boucanning." It was against Spanish law to sell such meat to passing ships, but many smugglers and rough characters united to do this. Many of these, being English, French, Dutch and Portugese settlers, were united against the Spaniards. Since they had learned to boucan meat, they became called buccaneers. So, when these people sailed out to attack some Spanish treasure ship, as they are shown doing in our picture, they had the excuse of fighting their countries' enemies. But they became ever more savage and cruel, attacking towns as well as ships. When, in 1670, England made a treaty with Spain, the buccaneers had no legal excuse left. Many became out-and-out pirates, and were finally hunted down and destroyed.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Look up pirate in an encyclopedia and you may revise the idea that these sea rovers were fascinating, adventurous souls who led romantic lives. Actually, they were the dregs of human society, who usually ended their lives-swinging by a rope.

Present Method Of Electing Ohio Senators Meets Accord

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio senators apparently are in complete agreement on the constitutionality of the present method of electing members of the state Senate.

Minority Leader Frank W. King, D-Lucas, said the state's 16 Democratic senators agreed unanimously Wednesday to join Republican senators in asking a special federal court to preserve the present Senate apportionment.

Republican senators endorsed the effort Tuesday and agreed to plans by King and GOP Leader Theodore M. Gray of Piqua to hire attorneys Hugh A. Scherer of Columbus and Kenneth Weinberg of Cleveland to represent the Senate at a federal court hearing Friday in Cincinnati.

Prompt action is expected by the three-judge court Friday on a suit by Clarence Blosser of Logan to declare present apportionment unconstitutional.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe expects action on the suit to clear the way for submission of plans for legislative reapportionment in line with U. S. Supreme Court "one man, one vote" decrees.

The court ordered the State Apportionment Board to submit a plan for election of members of both the Ohio House and Senate after the legislature at its recent session failed to agree on an apportionment measure.
